Trio Faces First Saltonstall "Purge" Today

Moyse, Foley on Mat Before Saltonstall

In two brief sessions each, Racing Commissioners George G. Moyse and Thomas Foley were on the mat today before Governor Saltonstall, while the State House thrilled with tense expectancy.

Flushed and apparently excited, Commissioner Moyse left the governor's presence after the visit, made on the governor's summons.

"No comment," he snapped to reporters who thronged about him. "See the governor."

Foley, second of the two commissioners who defied Saltonstall in his demand that no racing dates be assigned until after his inaugural, followed Moyse before the governor and also remained about two minutes.

He was less excited when he emerged, but also refused to talk.

"I have no statement to make," he said.

To a question—"Did you resign?"—Foley replied tersely:

"No."

Little more than an hour later the two commissioners returned and again went before the governor, separately.

Each remained inside less than two minutes.

The governor, it was learned exclusively, held a club of serious charges over at least one member of the racing commission as he summoned the two "lame duck" appointees of former Governor Hurley to the executive offices.

At the same time that he summoned the two commissioners the governor requested Chairman Charles F. Connors of the commission to withhold granting of licenses to both Suffolk Downs and the proposed new horse track at Westport.

Commissioners Moyse and Foley, who replaced Thomas F. Cassidy and James G. Moran when they unexpectedly resigned in the closing days of the Hurley regime, carried a 2 to 1 vote of the commission in favor of granting the

Group Asks Reply Before He Resigns

Charges of malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance in office against State Education Commissioner James G. Reardon were made today by Norman MacDonald, executive director of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Associations.

Governor's Day

As Governor Saltonstall swung into the first full day of his administration the following are highlights:

1—Racing Commissioners George G. Moyse and Thomas Foley, appointees of former Governor Hurley, called on the mat before Saltonstall—with Moyse leaving flushed and excited.

2—The Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Associations brings charges of malfeasance and nonfeasance in office against State Education Commissioner James G. Reardon in connection with storm.

3—Saltonstall orders that all non-competitive examinations cease and indicates start of his expected purge of the civil service department. (See Page 18)

The charges were contained in a formal of complaint filed by MacDonald with Governor Saltonstall, in which it was requested that Reardon not be allowed to resign until he has answered the allegations.

Meanwhile, Commissioner Reardon, in defiance of the governor, declared that he will not resign—the governor having stated tersely that he was awaiting the resignation.

In the taxpayers' association complaint it is charged that Reardon, with "wilful disregard for the best interests of the commonwealth," connived with Edward T. F. Graham, Cambridge architect, "to commit the commonwealth to payment of large sums to contractors to make large profits by performing wholly unnecessary work."

The complaint allege, that Reardon was "grossly negligent in that he failed to make a personal investigation or inquiry or permit any investigation within his department, as to the necessity of the work called for."

He also "wilfully misrepresented to the joint legislative committee on ways and means," the complaint says, "that all of the work called for under the contracts in question was made necessary by the hurricane and flood."

At the same time, in superior court, Judge Abraham E. Pinanski issued 11 temporary restraining orders on the federation's petitions against almost half a mil-

Frankfurter O.K. Certain

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The court reorganization issue may be revived in Senate hearings on Felix Frankfurter's nomination to the Supreme Court.

Although most senators expressed hearty support of the liberal Harvard law professor, several predicted today he would be asked for his views on the Roosevelt court bill, rejected by the Senate in 1937.

Frankfurter, a White House adviser, was appointed by Mr. Roosevelt to succeed the late Justice Cardozo.

Some western senators expressed regret that a man from their section had not been chosen, but Senator Thomas (D.) of Utah said, after a visit to the White House, he was sure a westerner would be appointed ultimately.

Several members of the Senate subcommittee named to consider Frankfurter's nomination, said they

EDYTHE WRIGHT
She's 'Pal' of Net Star

Singer, Budge Playing Love Set

By GENE KNIGHT
International News Service Special Correspondent

New York, Jan. 6 (INS)—Edythe Wright, blonde Broadway rhythm singer, and Don Budge, tennis ace, admitted to this reporter today they like each other an awful lot. Boy, how they like each other!

Their friends say a preacher will make them into a doubles team as soon as Don ends his cross-country tour with Ellsworth Vines.

And Edythe is leaving a $10,000-a-year job with a dance orchestra after three years of singing with it.

But they're not engaged, so they say. They just like each other—an awful lot.

"Don's the swellest person I know," says Edythe.

"Edythe's the nicest kid in the world," says Don.

The answers came in a three-way telephone conversation, with this reporter acting as grand inquisitor.

Imagine the scene.

Edythe's in the New Yorker terrace room, where she and Budge have whiled so many happy moments away.

PRETTY CLOSE FRIENDS

Ensues the following conversation piece:

DON — Edythe's one of my closest friends, but we're definitely not engaged.

EDYTHE—No, Don and I are not engaged—definitely.

DON — But I regard Miss Wright as one of the finest swing singers in the business.

EDYTHE—I think Don is the greatest tennis player in the world.

DON—I love to dance with Edythe. She's my favorite partner.

EDYTHE — I'd rather dance with Don than anybody else in the world. He's grand.

DON—Sure, I called her up after my match in Boston. She's my pal.

WHAT IF HE DID CALL

EDYTHE—Did Don call me up from Boston? Well, what if he did?

DON—I've taken Edythe out lots of times. And why not? She likes me, and I like her.

EDYTHE—I've been out with him several times. We both like swing music, you see.

DON—Will Edythe see any more of my matches? Gosh, I hope so.

EDYTHE — Sure, I'll see as many of his matches as I possibly can. But we're definitely not engaged.

REPORTER (that's us) — Sorry, kids. This is where we came in.

Find Mother Who Forgot Baby in N. Y.

A young mother, winner of a 1930 Boston beauty title, was under observation at a Bellevue hospital, New York, today after she allegedly left a five-year-old daughter in a Manhattan hotel lobby.

The mother is Mrs. Lillian Bowles Carlson Lariviere of Brookline avenue, Brookline. She has two young children here, Collette, two, and Lillian, 13 months.

The daughter left in the New York hotel is Mary Ann Carlson, five. Questioned by police while the mother was still missing she calmly gave her name and Brookline address and said she guessed "mama will be back."

Mrs. Lariviere did return to the hotel, after police began search for her. She appeared ill and in a nervous condition and was therefore committed temporarily to Bellevue hospital.

Little Mary Ann was cared for by the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Mrs. Lariviere won the Boston beauty title, "Miss Tercentenary," eight years ago. She was offered a Hollywood movie contract but refused to accept it, on advice of her mother.

Dorchester Fire Kills Mother, Girl

A young mother and a 15-year-old step-daughter lost their lives and another step-daughter, 17, was injured today when fire, believed to have been caused by short-circuited Christmas tree lights, trapped 16 persons in a two-and-a-half-story wooden home in Park street, Dorchester.

The injured step-daughter, Margaret Elia, jumped from a third-story window with a four-months-old baby, her little half-brother, George, in her arms.

Margaret's hip was fractured, in her leap, but the baby, wrapped in blankets, was unhurt.

The dead are Mrs. Myropia Elia, 24, and Demetra Elia, 15.

The former was the second wife of John Elia, 55, and was the mother of the rescued baby, George.

Seven firemen were overcome by smoke as they fought the blaze.

It started, investigators said, in a second floor hallway, where the Elia family Christmas tree was standing.

Apparent evidence of an electric short circuit in the tree wiring was discovered, police said.

As the needles on the tree burst into flame the fire spread rapidly through the hallway, blocking both front and rear stairs.

First to escape from the blazing home were Mrs. Daniel Bell, widow of a Boston fire captain, and her daughter, Anna, occupants of the street floor apartment.

FLAMES BAR RESCUERS

Meantime John Elia, owner of the house, and his married brother, Louis Elia, 53, were rousing other members of the family and were attempting to save women and children.

They were unable to fight their way up the blazing staircase to the third floor bedrooms where John's wife, Myropia, bride of a year and a half, and John's two daughters, Demetra and Margaret, were trapped, together with the baby, George.

Louis Elia aided police and firemen in rescuing his wife, Con-

Somerville Wives Win Jobs Back

Six married women, dropped last May from the Somerville city payroll, today were ordered reinstated, with back pay.

Judge Michael H. Sullivan made this ruling in Somerville District Court.

The six—Leah M. Estees, Helen E. Hazelton, Frances Sharpe Lewis, S. Frances Nugent, Mary C. Welch and Emmeline W. Edkins—were dismissed by Mayor John M. Lynch on May 14.

The reasons for their dismissals were given at the time as due to an economy measure, but it was further stated that inasmuch as their husbands were all working, the mayor didn't believe they needed the jobs.

The women appealed for a hearing, which was held last May 24 and 26 by Mayor Lynch, who, when it was over, refused to change his decision.

The women then sued in the Somerville district court through Attorney Wendell P. Murray. The hearing was before Judge Sullivan, who reserved decision until today.

Quiz Suspect In R. I. Slaying

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 6—Scientific crime detection is being used today in efforts of Providence police to solve the milk bottle murder of Mrs. Anna Baker, 72, found beaten to death in her room at a local lodging house.

Of three men questioned, one is being held for further investigation and every effort is being made to check upon his activities, while clothing stains, finger-nail parings and samples of the hair of all three are being submitted to microscopic scrutiny and chemical analysis.

The man held was reported by police to have had blood on his clothes, and traces of blood on his hands.

Robbery was the motive for the slaying, according to police, who report that the slain woman's room was in disorder, that pocketbooks had been ripped open and looted and that a bank book, purporting to show deposits of $1250 is missing.

The woman's granddaughter, Josephine Hafflicks, told police that the slain woman had worried recently over the activities of a man she knew who was said to have been drinking heavily.

Ellery Baker, the dead woman's son, an employe of the examiners' division of the Federal Reserve Bank in Washington, is in Providence to help police in their efforts to solve the crime.

Ickes Gagged On Radio Blast At Cong. Dies

Special to Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—Joint efforts of left-wing New Dealers and Communists to stop the Dies committee's investigation of subversive activities became violently disjointed today.

According to the plan, as announced in the Daily Worker—the official Communist newspaper—the joint anti-Dies drive was to have been started here tonight with a radio address by Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior.

ON DINNER PROGRAM

The address was to have been made at the opening dinner of the "Congress" of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

This league—formerly the American League Against War and Fascism—was exposed in testimony before the Dies committee as a Communist "united front" organization which was formed under the direct tutelage of Moscow.

The Ickes speech and broadcast were suddenly canceled, without explanation.

Later, announcement was made that the Communistic dinner at which Ickes was to have spoken had also been canceled.

According to reports here, Ickes' speech was called off after influential administration aides had passed word to Capitol Hill to fight any continuation of the Dies investigation.

INTENT REVEALED

That the Ickes speech was to have been an attack on the committee was made evident in the Communist Daily Worker of Tuesday last, in publishing the first public announcement of the address.

The Daily Worker said:

"Secretary Ickes' speech will carry behind it a smashing blow of utmost political significance against the un-American activities of the Dies committee. Political circles here considered Ickes' acceptance of the League's invitation to address its opening meeting as a direct slap by an administration leader at Dies, particularly because Dies used J. B. Matthews, former head of the League, as a 'star witness' several months ago."

In its issue the following day, the Daily Worker continued the subject of collaboration between the radical New Dealers and the Communists as follows:

"Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes went ahead with his plans to make a pointed reply to the witch-hunters at the Congress of the American League for Peace and Democracy on Friday. His address is entitled 'Playing With Loaded Dies.'"

N. H. Bill Asks Electric Chair

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 6—A bill on file with the state Legislature today would substitute the electric chair for hanging in New Hampshire. It was filed by Representative George A. Pray.

Murphy to Act On Dies Evidence

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today the justice department had undertaken an investigation of alleged violations of the criminal statutes by Nazis, Communists and certain other organizations in this country.

The President told a press conference Attorney-General Murphy had informed him to this effect by letter.

The letter was not made public, but President Roosevelt said the alleged violations were submitted to the department by the Dies committee investigating un-American activities.

President Roosevelt would not comment on reports that he opposed a request by Chairman Dies (D.) of Texas of the committee for an additional $150,000 to carry on its inquiry. The committee has exhausted its $25,000 original fund.

DIES URGED PROBE

The Justice Department began its investigation after Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, forwarded to former Attorney-General Cummings a request from Chairman Dies.

Dies asked a federal investigation to determine whether the Communist party, the German-American Bund and other organizations had violated federal laws by failing principals.

"mamma will be back."

Officials of the department said they had directed J. Edgar Hoover to have G-men investigate Dies' charges. Hoover's Federal Bureau of Investigation, they recalled, already has made a nation-wide inquiry into the Bund's activities in this country and turned the report over to Dies' committee.

Brien McMahon, assistant attorney general in charge of criminal prosecutions, will personally supervise the department's new investigation.

Dies said that evidence before his committee "clearly showed that the Communist party of the United States is an agent of the Communist Third International, which has its headquarters in Moscow."

NAMES ORGANIZATIONS

The evidence also indicated, his letter said, that certain "front" organizations of the Communist party were agents of that party. He specifically named the League for Peace and Democracy, the International Labor Defense, and the Civil Liberties Union.

Dies said other evidence indicated that the German-American Bund represented Germany's Nazi party.

Torso Killer On Coast Trip, Letter Boasts

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 (AP)—A letter mailed in Los Angeles and addressed to Police Chief George J. Matowitz of Cleveland, O., identifying the sender as Ohio's notorious "torso slayer," spurred police today to search for a possible victim of the mad killer.

The message telling Cleveland police they "can rest easy now as I have come out to Southern California for the winter," said the head of the writer's "latest victim" was buried in a gully beside a boulevard in South Los Angeles.

LETTER FROM "KILLER"

Heretofore, as far as is known, the "mad butcher of Kingsbury Run," has confined his activities to a shabby, scrubby area, criss-crossed by railroad tracks and a straggling little stream, at the back-door of Cleveland's downtown district.

The Ohio victims number 12, seven males and five females. All had been skillfully dissected.

"I felt bad operating on those people, but science must advance," read the letter. "I shall astound the medical profession!

"What did their lives mean in comparison to hundreds of sick and diseased, twisted bodies?

"Just laboratory guinea pigs found on any public street! No one missed them.

"My last case was successful. I know now the feeling of Pasteur, Thoreau and other pioneers.

TRUTH WILL OUT

"Right now I have a volunteer who will prove my theories. They call me mad and a butcher, but the truth will out.

"I feel it is my duty to dispose of the bodies as I do. It is God's will not to let them suffer."

The letter was signed "X."

Chief Matowitz said the only theory Cleveland police had been able to develop was that a crazed killer, with a flair for surgery, is at large.

The bodies, minus heads, have been found at various intervals during the past four years. Cleveland police have spent $100,000 in running down clues.

Only a few of the victims have been identified. In each case, the bodies were nude.

'Iron Lung' Nurse Dies

Confined in an "iron lung" since January 1, Miss Lyylie Eklund, 29, a nurse at Faulkner Hospital, died today at City Hospital as the result of injuries from slipping on icy pavement.

Miss Eklund was found unconscious on Center street, Jamaica Plain, early New Year's day. At City Hospital doctors found she could not breathe normally after suffering a fractured skull.

She was placed in the "iron lung" when various methods failed to revive her.

Leibowitz Client Finally Goes to Chair

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 6 (INS)—Samuel Leibowitz, the noted defense attorney, today could no longer claim that not one of his clients had died in the electric chair for last night the first of the many he has defended in court was executed at Sing Sing along with two others.

He was Salvatore Gati, electrocuted with Charles Sberma and David Lucas at four minute intervals. The three men, all 29, died cringing and palsied with fear.

Taxi Strike Ends After Union Poll

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—New York's taxicab drivers returned to work today, ending their three-day strike, following elections last night to pick a bargaining agent to meet with their employers.

John G. Moore of the State Labor Board, who supervised the polling, announced the transport workers' union (CIO) was chosen bargaining agent for six of the 28 companies involved in the balloting. In other companies unaffiliated unions were selected.

Governor Acts In Truck Strike

Governor Saltonstall stepped into the trucking strike situation this afternoon when, unexpectedly, he ordered the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation to report to his office. His move came as employers and representatives of the striking truck drivers were meeting.

Scattered reports of disturbances on roads outside of Boston and a call for 40 extra police guards in South Boston came today as trucking employers and representatives of striking truck drivers gathered for a peace parley.

The opposing factions met at the State House for a conference with officials of the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation.

Prior to the meeting it seemed that the differences between employers and strikers were so vast that no immediate peace could be expected.

It was said, however, that no acute shortage of food will be felt in Boston proper before Monday, but that already some suffering was apparent in nearby communities.

CLAIM TIEUP

Emergency measures have been discussed, but all plans are, at the moment, still nebulous. The strike is in its second day and strikers claim a complete tieup. Some employers assert, however, that their trucks are moving, but, they concede, with difficulty.

As the conference began the points of difference centered about wages and hours. The strikers demand a new contract, to take the place of the two-year agreement which terminated recently, which will provide for a 40-hour week, wages at $1 an hour, with time and a half for overtime beginning at the end of each eight-hour period.

Employers, however, ask for a continuation of the 54-hour week, wages of 71 cents an hour and overtime to begin at the end of 54 hours.

HEARING DELAYED

The old contract provided for 60-cents-an-hour, a 54-hour week, overtime beginning at the end of each eight-hour period.

General Charles H. Cole, chairman of the State Arbitration Board, presided at the State House meeting, which was delayed an hour in getting under way.

The labor group was headed by President James M. Sullivan, of Local No. 25 of the International Brotherhood of Chauffeurs, Teamsters and Helpers, A. F. of L., and Nicholas P. Morrissey.

The employers' group was, in turn, represented by Attorney Ralph Chouet, counsel for the Motor Freight Carriers' Employers' Association.

Attorney James Harrington represented a group of chain store employers.

TURN BACK TRUCKS

Prior to the beginning of the conference, Sullivan asserted that eight more employers have signed up independently, bringing the number of claimed capitulations to forty.

Principal disturbances were reported on the Providence road, where, it was said, trucks were turned back, or ordered into garages by strikers and their pickets. It was said that in some instances there was a show of force and some intimidation.

Forty police were sent to the Fruit Exchange, Fargo street, South Boston, by Superintendent of Police Fallon when it was charged that drivers were being intimidated by pickets. No disorder was reported.

TOWNS SHORT OF FOOD

Superintendent of Markets James Gillis told of the food situation in Boston proper, saying:

"There is sufficient food available to last until Monday with no distress of any kind. In some of the nearby towns, however, the shortage is already apparent."

Charles A. Carbone, representing the Boston Market Terminal, asserted that the tie-up there is 90 per cent complete. He said that between 50 and 60 carloads of produce arrive every day, valued at between $100,000 to $300,000.

Union officials announced that al but two firms on the Fish Pier had signed new contracts, putting about 75 men back to work. Two large companies, L. H. Young & Co. and the J. Coyle Company, were, however, unsigned.

Daladier Plans Tunisia Defense

ALGIERS, Jan. 6 (AP)—Premier Daladier arrived here aboard the cruiser Foch today to confer with military and civil leaders of France's North African colonies.

Fresh from a three-day tour of strategic Tunisia, object of Italian claims, Daladier talked for an hour and a half with the governor general of this colony, and the army, air and naval commanders.

Officials said Daladier, who is National Defense Minister as well as Premier, reviewed plans for Tunisia's defense in case Italian demands should result in conflict.

Fruit Group Fights Chain Store Group

Duce Studies U.S. Refugee Proposal

ROME, Jan. 6 (AP) — Trustworthy sources said today that Premier Mussolini was studying a United States proposal for settlement of some Jewish refugees in Ethiopia.

They indicated Jewish colonization of some regions of Italian East Africa was among proposals in a memorandum from President Roosevelt which Ambassador William Phillips delivered to Premier Mussolini last Tuesday.

Mussolini, they said, showed an "encouraging attitude."

STATUS OF U. S. JEWS

The Fascist Grand Council already has provided a way for this, having announced on Oct. 7 that anti-Semitic restrictions "did not exclude the possibility of conceding controlled immigration of Jews into some zone of Ethiopia, even deflecting such emigrations from Palestine."

Foreign Jews in Italy, many refugees from Austria, have little more than two months to leave the country under the decree expelling them by March 12.

Informed sources indicated some of Italy's approximately 200 American Jews would be allowed to remain. The United States embassy has been given assurance that Italian authorities would consider making exceptions in individual cases.

RAP ROOSEVELT

The Fascist newspaper, Il Messaggero, meanwhile, charged that President Roosevelt in his defense speech to Congress supported "Jewish plutocracy which has declared war on authoritarian states."

Roosevelt, the Italian publication charged, had "succumbed to the infamous influence of Jewish-controlled super-capitalism under the disguise of humanitarianism."

Il Messaggero adhered to the view of German newspapers.

The papers said any inference that totalitarian states wanted to attack America was "false and impudent."

U. S. Marines Land--on Japs

SHANGHAI, Jan. 6 (INS)—Ten United States marines against 30 Japanese soldiers in the good old sport of fisticuffs—with no holds barred—and "the situation is well in hand."

In fact, it was almost a massacre today when ten marines guarding the Shanghai Power Company's plant in the Yangtzepoo district battled 30 Japanese soldiers in a short but decisive free-for-all.

When the dust settled it was found that eight of the Japanese had been knocked "cold" and a number of others, badly banged up, had fled.

The trouble began after the Japanese took a short cut through the company's property. A Russian watchman who saw them coming was afraid to close the gate.

A second watchman, however, not informed of his companion's experience, locked his gate. The Japanese climbed over it and beat up the watchman.

Four marines who saw the incident immediately called the guard—six more—and mixed it with the Japanese. No weapons other than fists were used—but it is understood that fists were what the Japanese saw plenty of.

Chamberlain Holds Italian Pact Parley

LONDON, Jan. 6 (INS)—Amid rising fears that his plans for European "appeasement" are sailing into dangerous waters, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain presided over a meeting of the "inner cabinet" today for a discussion of foreign affairs.

Closeted in Ten Downing street, Chamberlain and his chief government advisers talked over arrangements for the prime minister's forthcoming visit to Rome, where he will confer next week with Premier Mussolini.

It was believed possible that Chamberlain and his leading ministers would meet again Monday to review all possibilities of the international situation in the light of the Rome visit. At these meetings, it is expected, a decision will be formulated regarding the future course of British foreign policy.

Well-informed quarters predicted that Chamberlain's dramatic endorsement of the anti-dictatorship utterances voiced by President Roosevelt before Congress may gravely jeopardize the prime minister's plan for speedy "appeasement" of the dictators.

BERLIN, Jan. 6 (AP)—An informant in daily touch with the highest German officials said today that Nazi hopes of bridging the gap between the United States and the Reich center on next week's visit to Berlin of George Rublee, the American director, and other members of the intergovernmental committee on refugees.

In Nazi eyes the decision of the Berlin government to receive Rublee and his associates is a gesture of appeasement involving considerable German sacrifice.

German authorities hitherto have declined to receive representatives of the Evian conference of last July, which set up the intergovernmental committee to cope with Europe's tangled refugee problems.

Franco Shatters Spanish Lines

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), Jan. 6 (AP)—The Spanish government's strongly fortified line on the central Catalonia front was shattered in two places today at the end of a 24-hour insurgent drive.

The town of Borjas Blancas, at the southern end of the string of forts making up the 20-mile front, was in the hands of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops. About five miles to the north the village of Torregrosa also was reported occupied by the insurgents.

Czech Border Battle Rages

BUDAPEST, Jan. 6 (INS)—An attempt by Czechoslovak troops and Ukrainian terrorists to seize the thriving town of Munkacs precipitated bloody warfare on the Ruthenian-Hungarian border today.

Many civilians were reported killed and wounded when regular Czech batteries, posted on hills overlooking the town, opened up a second heavy bombardment of Munkacs at 2:40 p. m.

In a previous cannonading eight large shells had been hurled into Munkacs, wrecking a motion picture theater, partially destroying a hotel and damaging a number of houses.

The battle apparently resulted from an attempt by Czechs and Ukrainians to capture Munkacs, a former Rutherian town at the apex of a wedge of territory ceded to Hungary under the Munich agreement.

FIRE ON FLAG OF TRUCE

Late this afternoon, government sources reported that the Czech invaders had been driven out of Hungarian territory but that fighting was continuing along the borderline itself. Czech shelling of Munkacs continued intermittently throughout the afternoon.

At one stage of the proceedings, it was said, a high Czech officer approached the Hungarian lines bearing a white flag as a symbol of his desire to negotiate.

The Hungarians sent an officer of equal rank and a civilian mediator to meet him, but when their car appeared on the road, Czech machine-gunners opened fire.

The wouldbe mediator was wounded in the head, it was charged.

The foray began when Czech troops and Ukrainians tried to enter Munkacs with a detachment of armored cars. When Magyar border guards repelled them on the outskirts, the artillery opened fire. Four Hungarian officers and five soldiers were reported killed in the first encounter.

More than two hours and a half later, the Czech batteries opened up again, wrecking a number of additional buildings and causing heavy civilian casualties.

Details were meagre owing to action of military authorities in sealing up the town. Civilians were not permitted to leave and all dispatches were heavily censored.

Hungarian authorities charged the Czechs had deliberately provoked the incident by crossing the new frontier, which has not yet been finally delimited.

For some time there has been dissatisfaction among Czechs and Ukraines over the award of Munkacs to Hungary. This town and territory immediately south of it was given to Hungary under a supplement to the Munich accord signed in Vienna on November 2.

Hungarian official reports stated the terrorists chose today for their forceful attempts to seize the town, for this is the day of Epiphany, a religious holiday on which Hungarian guards were reduced to skeleton forces.

Cause of the conflict was not known. Budapest authorities took the view that Czech troops had acted without provocation and promptly so informed the German and Italian legations here.

London Fears New Hitler Grab

LONDON, Jan. 6 (INS)—The Daily Mirror's political writer said today it is believed Chancellor Hitler will obtain Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck's "reluctant consent" to Germany's annexation of the Polish Corridor within the next few weeks.

This consent, it was added, will be given before Beck leaves Germany, according to widespread anticipation.

Along with annexation of the post-war Polish Corridor, formerly a part of Germany's Eastern Prussia, the Reich would also acquire the league-created free city of Danzig and the port of Memel, now held by Lithuania, the political correspondent reported.

Mooney to Aid Pal When Free

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Jan. 6 (AP)—Thomas J. Mooney, apparently assured of a pardon tomorrow when he appears before Governor Culbert L. Olson at Sacramento, turned today to plans for his life outside prison walls.

"I'm going to dedicate the rest of my life, if necessary," said Mooney, "to winning freedom for Warren Billings, too."

Mooney and Billings were convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing in which 10 persons were killed and 40 injured.

The defendants claimed they were accused falsely because of their reputations as "direct action" labor unionists, and that they were convicted on perjured testimony.

Governor Olson, newly-seated Democratic executive, already has said he believes Mooney innocent, and has declared he would announce his decision immediately after the pardon hearing. No opposition to Mooney's application was expected.

Mooney said that as soon as he is free, he would go to Folsom from Sacramento to talk with Billings. The latter, because of a prior conviction is ineligible for a pardon unless it is recommended by the state Supreme Court.

Mooney, awaiting his expected freedom, was almost boyishly happy.

"Why," said he, "I have fewer hours to wait now than the years I've served!"

Urge Earmarks On WPA Funds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Members of the Senate unemployment committee agreed informally today to attempt to earmark the future distribution of federal funds with a formula which would strip the WPA administrator of virtually all discretion in the allocation of state quotas.

Chairman Byrnes (D., S. C.) said the committee would meet next week to go over various suggestions to be made by members with the hope of evolving a simple formula that can be inserted in relief appropriation bills.

Senator Murray (D., Mont.), an administration supporter, said he favored placing such a formula in the proposed $875,000,000 emergency relief appropriation taken under consideration today by a House appropriation subcommittee.

FAVORS STATE RULE

President Roosevelt in requesting the emergency fund yesterday, specifically asked that any changes in the method of distributing relief be delayed until Congress has given the matter careful consideration.

At the same time he requested that the emergency fund be appropriated post haste.

"I am in favor of taking away from the WPA administrator the discretion he has had in allocating funds to the states," Murray declared. "I think we can work out a simple formula that will guarantee each state its just share and I see no reason why it shouldn't be put in the emergency bill."

Senator Cook (D.) of Massachusetts committee members may follow the formula with some changes by which federal highway aid has been distributed for years. This formula takes into account highway mileage, population and area, whereas a relief formula might substitute need for mileage.

READY TO SLASH

Cook said also he would propose cuts in operating between most agencies seeking specifically to merge the separate United States employment service with the social security setup.

Congress meanwhile, asked WPA to show why it wants a sum of not less than $875,000,000 to operate until July 1.

An appropriations subcommittee called Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, as the first witness at hearings which members said would be devoted to a close examination of relief needs.

At the same time, Senator Adams (D.) of Colorado said that if the House does not cut the proposed fund there would be a determined effort in the Senate appropriations committee to do so.

Byrnes, who has been working on a new formula for relief distribution, called his unemployment committee together to consider possible recommendations. He said he was preparing data to support his contention that some regions have not received their fair share of WPA funds.

ANOTHER 'REPEAL'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (INS)—A repeal amendment to repeal the 21st Amendment which repealed the Prohibition Act was offered the senate today by Senator Morris Sheppard (D.) of Texas, often referred to as the "father of prohibition."

Curfew Not to Ring

There'll be no curfew in Needham tonight. Nor any other night. Richard Salamone, new fire chief, has abolished the "unofficial curfew."

For 45 years, the fire department sounded a single long blast at 8:45 p. m. to test the apparatus. It was an institution. Children were put to bed by it. Salamone says the nightly test is not needed.

Cardinal Busy Before Sailing

William Cardinal O'Connell buried himself with last-minute duties today in preparation for his departure for a winter home, The Hermitage at Nassau.

Cardinal O'Connell sails from Commonwealth Pier at 11 a. m. tomorrow aboard the Italy Steamship Line's Vulcania. Before leaving, he will say Mass in the Immaculate Conception Church, Lowell, at 8 a. m. and in the Church of St. Mary's Star of the Sea, Lawrence, at 10:30 a. m.

Frankfurter Awaits O. K.

Supremely happy, Professor Felix Frankfurter today attacked his usual daily duties without personal ado over his appointment by the President to the highest honor that comes to a man of the law.

Observing his long-maintained policy of keeping out of the limelight the Harvard professor stated simply that he would make no move toward his new duties until the Senate had confirmed his nomination to the Supreme Court.

While friends, associates and leaders in every walk of life applauded the appointment Professor Frankfurter remained at his Brattle street home, busy with daily routine and answering only nominally.

Unlike others appointed to high office Professor Frankfurter has no intention of personally rushing down to Washington, even though political observers are positive his confirmation will come overwhelmingly in the Senate.

"I am, of course, sensible to the obligation and the honor involved. Otherwise I have nothing to say."

The one man often named the most outstanding figure in matters of Roosevelt legislation refused to comment this morning on the administration of his appointment.

LIBERAL LIKE HOLMES

On every hand leaders lauded Frankfurter as the successor of one of the finest legal minds in America.

Upon the late Oliver Wendell Holmes his mantle fell and there he was a liberal.

Long in favor of action not only advised by the President but a personal friend, he has been active.

He never has been a yes man and was even outspoken when President was a good friend of a Democrat.

It is known of his views on him in the appointment of the case in the radical camp, as was manifested by action taken upon the topic. Every [illegible] him to be the logical [illegible] and that he [illegible] Adm. [illegible] he was worthwhile.

Many times he [illegible] longed today [illegible] for his unselfish [illegible] the exception of [illegible] but never [illegible] whether [illegible] of interest [illegible] labor.

will not vote until hearings are held by that. This began a study of the appointee's past utterances to ascertain his attitude toward the court reorganization plan.

WILL ASK HIS VIEWS

Senator King (D.) of Utah and Connally (D.) of Texas said that, while Frankfurter had made no definite statement on the program, there were [illegible] he had opposed it.

Another [illegible] member Senator McAdoo (D.-Nev.), said [illegible] Professor Frankfurter [illegible] about his [illegible] opposed.

Chairman Neely (D.) of West Virginia called a meeting of the [illegible] committee for 10:30 a.m. to [illegible] under the nominations would [illegible] be open to the public, but that he did not know whether Frankfurter would be present or whether any witnesses would be heard.

Hearings also were scheduled on three other nominations, those of Senator Pope (D.-Idaho) to be a TVA director, Harry Hopkins to be Secretary of Commerce and Frank Murphy to be Attorney General.

Senate critics of the TVA had urged Pope's nomination. Senator Bridges (R.-N.H.) asserted that Mr. Roosevelt had acted illegally in making Arthur E. Morgan as TVA chairman.

Pope was named to Morgan's unexpired term. Morgan now is contesting his removal.

Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.), who authored the TVA act, defended Pope's right to the seat.

Bridges also criticized the nominations of Murphy and Hopkins. Senators Connally and Wagner (D.-N.Y.) promptly came to Hopkins' support.

Connally charged Bridges was trying to smear Hopkins.

WILL QUESTION MURPHY

A majority of the committee said they approved Murphy's appointment but that he would be questioned regarding his handling of sit-down strikes when governor of Michigan.

Appointment of Frankfurter was [illegible] which President Roosevelt has made to the Supreme Court. Four of the present justices [illegible] Brandeis, McReynolds, Butler and Chief Justice Hughes, are past 70 and [illegible] to retire on full pay of $20,000 a year.

It was believed that Hughes 76 and Butler 72 have given no thought to retirement.

Some parties believed Brandeis might go earlier than he would have done if a new justice more sympathetic than Frankfurter had been named.

Some circles suggested Brandeis might be tempted to retire during the Roosevelt administration so the President could appoint a Liberal as his successor.

Last Call, Girls, For Fame, Cash

Tomorrow is the last day for you Cosmopolitan Girls to get into this amazing contest!

Tomorrow, January 7, at the stroke of midnight, every letter and photograph must be on the desk of the Cosmopolitan Girl Editor.

1—A year's work as a professional model in New York.

2—A Warner Brothers screen test, an opportunity for a Hollywood and Broadway career.

3—A six weeks course at the Academy Moderne, FREE. This is the famous school for social and professional models, directed by Mrs. Mildred Allurt.

4—An engagement at the swank Midnight Sun Nils T. Granlund's (N. T. G. of radio fame) "hot spot" of cafe society.

5—YOUR picture painted for the front cover of Cosmopolitan Magazine by Bradshaw Crandell, distinguished artist.

6—YOUR story written for Cosmopolitan Magazine by Faith Baldwin, noted writer.

7—YOUR introduction to cafe society by Elsa Maxwell, dictator of cafe society.

FIVE TO BE NAMED

Next week the judges will select a committee to help them select a Miss Maine, a Miss Massachusetts, a Miss Rhode Island, a Miss Vermont and a Miss New Hampshire.

EACH ONE OF THESE GIRLS WILL PARTICIPATE IN THE NATIONAL CONTEST SPONSORED BY COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE FOR THE MODEL JOB, THE WARNER BROTHERS SCREEN TEST, THE PORTRAIT AND STORY AND THE INTRODUCTION TO CAFE SOCIETY.

And—

From the five states the judges will select a Miss New England Cosmopolitan Girl, who will be entitled TO ALL THE SEVEN AWARDS LISTED. (One was the Editorial contest honors.)

Plus—

A personal appearance in the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser, for a thrilling tour of the swank clubs.

CHANCE STILL OPEN

Should you fail to be chosen Miss New England Cosmopolitan Girl you still have an opportunity to be in the national finals if you are one of the five state winners.

Here are the rules:

1—Write the Cosmopolitan Girl Editor a 150-word letter telling all about yourself, your ambitions, your cherished dreams, experiences (romantic and adventurous)—ALL ABOUT YOURSELF. In this way, the judges will be able to decide if you are cosmopolitan.

2—Enclose photographs of yourself, ONE portrait and ONE full-length, emphasizing your figure.

3—Mail letter and photographs to the Cosmopolitan Girl Editor, 5 Winthrop square, Boston. ENCLOSE POSTAGE IF YOU WANT PHOTOGRAPHS RETURNED.

Foils Plot to Steal Body Of Man Slain Wedding Eve

MARYSVILLE, O., Jan. 6 (AP)—A possible attempt to steal the body of Elmer S. Hayes, 28, slain on the eve of his wedding, was revealed today by Sheriff Homer Boone.

The body of Hayes was in the undertaking parlor of E. S. Faulkner when Mrs. Faulkner, frightened by a man who attempted to pry open a window at the mortuary.

Hayes' body, bound with wire and tied to a rusty, stone-laden milk can, was found by a deputy in an abandoned quarry near Marysville, where Hayes worked as a boy. It was the seventh quarry searched.

"Someone either was trying to steal the body or was looking for the wire and can," Boone said.

Cites $25,000 Carney Plea

TAUNTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Captain Llewellyn Roberts, summoned to the bribery trial of Mayor Leo E. J. Carney of New Bedford, testified today Carney offered him a garbage collection contract if he could "raise $25,000."

DEFENDS CURTSY—Glamorous Grace Moore is pictured during New York interview as she defended her right to curtsy to the American Duchess of Windsor, to whom the singer bent the knee at Cannes. "Only a question of manners," said Miss Moore.

McKenna.

"When I walked in," Robert testified, "the mayor asked me to sit down, and said 'I understand you are interested in bidding on the garbage collection contract.'

I told him I was, and he asked me if I had any figures. I told him I had some with me."

ASKED $25,000

"'What are you figuring on?' he asked me," Roberts testified. 'I told him $22,000 a year.'

"'What is there in it for me?' Carney asked me," Roberts said. "I told him I figured on $100 a week for him. Carney then asked me: 'Is that on a two-year basis?' I said it was.

"Then Carney asked me what I could do on a five-year basis. I told him I supposed I could take care of him with the same amount.

"Then he said to me: 'We don't do business that way.' I asked him what he meant. He told me: 'We've got to have $25,000 laid on the line if you want to get that contract. If you can raise the $25,000 the contract is yours.'

QUIZZED SHARPLY

Captain Roberts was cross-examined sharply by Defense Counsel Timothy F. Cronin.

Judge James C. Donnelly excluded a question as Cronin asked Roberts if he had supported Carney's campaign for mayor in 1936.

Roberts was a witness this morning, but examination of the witness by counsel for the defendant was not completed.

Roberts testified he learned details of the garbage contract plans from records in the office of the board of health.

Shift Ace Envoy, Cambridge Man

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6 (INS)—Irving M. Linnell, one of America's ace diplomatic troubleshooters, was in San Francisco today on the way from the Far East to the States.

A Harvard graduate and one time member of the Cambridge City Council, Linnell has been Consul General at Shanghai, China, for the United States.

He said he was merely doing his routine job when he was ordered to the Far East by the state department.

Linnell smirked.

"It's good to be in a lively place, rather than a dead one. Yes, Canton was a lively place."

Driver Hits, Stops, Then Deserts Girl

A hit and run driver who with a show of bravado got out of his machine and viewed his victim before racing away, was sought today in Woburn.

The victim, Miss Gertrude M. Gowen, 17, of Brookside avenue, Winchester, was taken from the scene of the accident on Main street to Choate Memorial Hospital. She was treated for a broken leg and other injuries.

KILLED BY TUGBOAT

Saltonstall Purges Civil Service

Orders Exams Halted; Checks Back Records

Governor Saltonstall today began his anticipated purge of the state civil service department.

Through a secretary, Daniel J. Lynch, the governor notified James E. O'Neil, chief examiner of the department, that all non-competitive examinations must stop.

At the same time O'Neil was instructed to [illegible] office at 9 a. m. [illegible] to bring with him records of non-competitive examinations during the past six months.

REVEALS "EXAM" LISTS

These are expected to include records of recent examinations, eagerly asked for by former Governor Hurley, and to which several aspirants who failed to gain passing marks are declared to have been given passing marks.

Among persons given state jobs through non-competitive examinations in the Hurley administration were several who had been affiliated with Hurley and members of his official family.

Ever while Governor Saltonstall was being sworn in yesterday as the non-competitive examinations were being given in the civil service department in the federal building.

The appointment gave the list of [illegible] taking the examinations as follows:

State public works department:

Lester J. Ellis, now receiving $3000 a year, examination to be senior civil engineer at $3660.

Martin A. Morrissey, now $2520, to be senior chemist at $2940.

Francis R. Hedtinger, $2160, to be civil engineer at $2340.

Joseph G. Cressy and Avalos G. Robertson, now receiving $3120 each, to be senior civil engineers at $3660.

Edward J. McCarthy, Albert B. Berry, Michael J. Crowley, Albert E. Dadley and Edward J Hayden, now receiving $2304, to be assistant civil engineers at [illegible].

OTHERS TAKING TEST

Robert E. Lyne and John H. Britt, now receiving $2400, to be assistant civil engineers at $2940.

Frederic Guerin, $3840, to be senior civil engineer at same salary.

Hugh A. Carr, John F. Casey, Edward J. Gorrie, Gordon G. Love, John F. McManus, Joseph F. O'Neil and Charles Weller, now receiving $3120 each, to be senior civil engineers at $3660.

Thomas D. Houlahan, George J. Low, Dewey M. MacLeay, John L. MacRae, Robert E. McCarthy, John E. Reagan, John M. Thompson, Henry W. Walsh, John F. Coughlin, Leo T. O'Leary and John W. Griffin, now at $2160 each, to be junior civil engineers at $2280.

Earl Dunham, to be junior civil engineer at same salary, $2160.

John B. O'Neil, now at $1620, to be senior engineering aid at $1680.

Alfred Puts, now at $1680, to be senior engineering aid at $1800.

Attorney-General's Department:

John J. Harrington, minor employe, to be cashier and law clerk at $3500, a substantial increase.

Boston public works department:

John H. Carroll, to be supervisor of construction and maintenance, highway division, at increase to $2100; Earle Wickes, to be principal clerk in street laying out division at increase to $1600.

Police Shot Hits Two Youths In South Boston

Firing a single shot, Patrolman John Van Denberg wounded two South Boston youths on East Third street early when they ran from the rear [illegible] of a [illegible] clothing store.

The pair, aided by [illegible] as Coleman Nee, 17, of East Third street, and John Coffey, 20, of Emmet street, both South Boston, were arrested after a [illegible] tumble [illegible] which ensued.

Held as suspicious persons, both were placed under police guard at Boston City Hospital. Bruises and cuts were found on their heads. On the neck of each youth was a [illegible] wound, believed caused by the policeman's bullet as it ricocheted.

Patrolman Van Denberg spotted the two suspects after he had been on watch for two hours over a cache of allegedly stolen clothes, concealed near the [illegible] School on East Broadway.

The clothing [illegible] said was taken from a store on East Broadway.

lion dollars' worth ... and storm contracts, ordering a ... hearing January 12.

Arriving at the ... today, Education Commissioner Reardon told reporters:

"I had no control over Attorney General Dever's investigation of the contracts for hurricane and flood-storm repairs. I was simply a witness with no power to introduce evidence or control the investigation in any manner.

"If any charges are made against me in regard to the conduct of my office as commissioner of education, I stand ready to meet them, whatever they are. I have no fear of the outcome, and in the meantime I ask the public to suspend judgment."

He has not, he said, ... any formal request ... tion from the governor.

In a press conference, Governor Saltonstall, replying to this statement of Reardon's, said:

"I presume when he reads the newspapers, like myself."

When informed of the Reardon statement that he intends to fight any attempt to have him resign, the governor commented:

"A man has a right to change his mind."

"Does that indicate, the governor was asked, "that you might demand his resignation after a reasonable time for him to submit?"

"A man has a right to change his mind," Saltonstall repeated.

DENIES CHARGES

Graham, the architect in the ... storm repair work, ... today any responsibilities for "waste of state ... charged by Dever.

Graham, who allegedly was recommended to Reardon by former Governor Hurley, cast a new cloud of mystery to the situation when he said:

"I worked under instructions from people in this state.

"That's all I can say just now, except that I am terribly surprised. I will have a complete statement to make as soon as I have seen the entire report."

Graham told the Boston Evening American that he was engaged by the Department of Education for the hurricane damage.

"Governor Hurley had nothing to do with this," he said.

Asked who in the Department of ... education ...

"I await Commissioner Reardon's resignation," said the new governor.

Commissioner Reardon ...

"I certainly have no intention of resigning. This request is unexpected, and what action I shall take to fight will be announced after I have read the Dever report."

"Decisions were solely and entirely those of Graham," Dever said. "I am constrained to the conclusion that he deliberately and knowingly attributed conditions to flood and hurricane which had long existed.

"In some instances he even advised college heads that 'there was going to be plenty of money to spend' and encouraged them to suggest expensive programs."

Lindy Bares Nazi Air Might

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (INS)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has submitted to American authorities two secret reports on Nazi Germany's "supreme" air might, International News Service learned today.

[illegible] were made available to the War and Navy Departments [illegible] and many officers [illegible]

[illegible] at the press conference today, he had not seen or made a report [illegible]

UNSOLICITED

Lindbergh acted in his private capacity as an American citizen. His reports were unsolicited. They presumably augmented the confidential report he submitted several months ago to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain after a tour of Germany at the suggestion of British authorities.

Informed observers stated the Lindbergh data squares with information received through the army and navy intelligence services. These findings by the army and navy are said to be in part responsible for the decision of President Roosevelt to strengthen America's military aviation and air defenses.

Lindbergh participated in one of the races he entered in west Washington and crossed Europe's air progress both in navy and commercial air unannounced date.

Lindbergh's notes were replete with superlatives in describing the tremendous war machine Germany is churning out of her airplane factories. They contained urgent appeals that the United States heed this threat.

STRESSES POINTS

In the first memorandum, he stressed that:

Germany's plane production and research facilities far surpass those of any other nation in the world.

Germany's air power makes that country as "supreme" in the skies as Britain is on the seas.

Nazi research in certain lines of aviation is "so new that the full value cannot be known for years."

Germany is producing military aircraft on an "unprecedented" and almost unbelievable scale.

If Germany continues its progress in the field of commercial aviation the Reich will present "severe" competition to America's foreign air lines, as well as military machine.

Lindbergh's second report was devoted primarily to an appeal to the United States to expand its research laboratories and technical facilities to meet Germany's challenge for world air supremacy.

Samaritan Role Played by Judge

LOWELL, Jan. 6—Edmund L. Briggs of Poland, Me., today knew there was such a thing as justice tempered with mercy.

Judge Patrick J. Reynolds allowed him one year to pay a $100 fine for driving under the influence of liquor and then gave him $4 for train fare to see his sick mother.

Nab 3, Opium In Gun Battle

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (INS)—Three alleged smugglers were captured with an estimated $150,000 of contraband opium after a spectacular gun battle on the Brooklyn waterfront in which a policeman was wounded.

The three suspects whose arrest culminated four months of undercover work were booked as Luigi Esposito, 42, Frank Visciano, 49, and Salvatore Luise, 42. They held off a small army of federal agents, detectives and uniformed patrolmen for half an hour.

The capture was engineered by Detective Everett Runey of the Kings County racket squad who worked his way into the confidence of the men by living with them for four months.

Landon Lauded For Lima Work

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt told Alfred M. Landon in a letter made public here today that the results achieved at the recent Pan-American Conference at Lima, Peru, "have been of the highest importance in assuring close and understanding relations between all the American republics."

Waterbury Case Jury Finally Filled

WATERBURY, Ct., Jan. 6 (INS)—Clarence Beinegel, dairy farmer of Woodbridge, was selected as the 12th juror in the Waterbupry conspiracy trial in superior court today after brief questioning by Special Prosecutor High M. Alcorn.

Beinegel who was the 366 venireman examined since the trial started, November 29, was the seventh questioned today and was accepted at noon.

Talking Robot Wows Throng

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6 (AP)—The baby robot of science, a machine that talks, the first ever made, is having the same troubles in learning as a human baby.

It can't say "I." Its mechanical throat is capable of this liquid sound, but it won't, sighs and says

"R," "rw" or "wr."

The machine is the Voder (short for voice operation demonstrator), invented by the Bell telephone laboratories for this year's World Fairs in New York and San Francisco, and "unveiled" here yesterday before some awed scientists.

IMITATION OF THOAT

It can talk, sing, laugh, scream, imitate any animal you can name, or any machine or noise of nature. It is an electrical imitation of the human throat, and it makes words as you choose, by pressing the right keys.

The Voder, looking like an oversized typewriter, or a tiny organ, stood on four spindly, wooden legs in front of an audience in the auditorium of the Franklin Institute. It had keys like an organ and a foot pedal.

Like a piano player, in front of it sat Mrs. Helen Harper, good looking telephone operator, one of 24 who is teaching the Voder and 11 like it to get ready for the fairs.

She touched a white key. A deep toned, steady whistle sounded. She touched a black key and there was a click, like the sound of K. She touched another white key and there was a rushing sound like a huge wind sighing. She pushed down on the foot pedal and the sounds ran down the scale, and up as she lifted her foot.

THREE KINDS OF SOUND

Voder makes [illegible] kinds of sound, electrically produced from "tones" that look like elongated light bulbs. But when all the keys are called on, and the foot pedal used, the voder makes 23 separate sounds, and a thousand modulations of each.

It talks if the operater learns the right touch and combinations. The scientists tried it out

"Say Mississippi," one shouted from the audience.

The young woman pressed the keys, and there was a roar of appreciation, for the imitation was nearly perfect.

Philadelphia, the next called for, was not so good.

"Bell" it could hardly say. That is the most difficult word, on account of the liquid "L" sound.

With the twist of a dial Voder's voice switched from deep baritone to soprano. Then it imitated a boy whose voice is "breaking."

"Oh yeah," from Voder wowed the scientists.

The 24 telephone operators, with 12 Voders for practice, use the machines for hours daily, talking to each other. It takes months to learn to make the Voder speak intelligibly.

Watch Baby's Food, Warns Dr. Dafoe

By ALLAN ROY DAFOE, M. D.
Personal Physician to the Dionne Quintuplets

[illegible] and what a [illegible] is to try to cure your baby when he begins to [illegible] food and has developed eczema.

Let us suppose now that the baby is being fed on cow's milk and develops eczema at the age of one month. There are several steps that can be taken.

The first, and easiest, is to [illegible] for a period of [illegible] the character of the protein curds in the milk and thus may relieve [illegible]

[illegible] in the upper half of a double boiler, and it should be cooked for at least two hours. [illegible] this cooking the milk will [illegible] in appearance and become [illegible] lower; but it will be more digestible.

EVAPORATED MILK

Another way to change the protein in the milk which is bothering your child is to use evaporated milk. This product is boiled for a considerable time during evaporation and so the proteins are changed.

There are various types of patented baby foods on the market which are supposed to replace milk. I would advise mothers not to resort to these without specific instruction of a doctor.

Let us assume that one of the above methods of changing proteins has been successful, and that your baby's eczema is improving. It is time that the child received his Vitamins C and D. These may cause him to have more eczema.

Let us say that we start the baby on a fruit juice. He should be given some the first day and then [illegible] on the three succeeding days. If the eczema gets worse on that time, then we know that it is the juice that is doing it. Then you can carry out the same routine with some other juice.

If [illegible] continues to [illegible] on the [illegible] a few [illegible] tests that are on the market and which contain [illegible] Vitamin C. These [illegible]

ADD FOODS CAREFULLY

When the problem so far as Vitamin C is concerned [illegible] see what [illegible] it gives [illegible]

Cereals and vegetables are next added to the diet and these additions should be made in the same careful way.

One of the main things to keep in mind, however, is that a fat, healthy baby, even if it suffers some from eczema, is preferable to a thin unhealthy baby with no eczema.

I know it may sound rather unnecessary for me to say this to parents, but I have known mothers who became so determined in their efforts to clear up the baby's eczema that they jeopardized the child's health.

Doggone! Look At Blue Book!

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Jan. 6 (AP)—The 1939 edition of the Social Directory of the United States, which carries the foreword that "the standard for eligibility has been extremely high," lists the names of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Von Schneider among South Dakotans this year.

The Von Schneiders were described as members of the Minnehaha Country Club and graduates of Heidelberg University. Their four children were listed as Mimi, Hans, Gretel and Sophia.

Inquiry developed the Von Schneiders and their "children" are Dachshund thoroughbreds belonging to T. M. Bailey, an attorney. How they happened to be listed in the directory was not disclosed.

"If we are to maintain our democratic ideals, then it is the duty of government to provide first for the man at the foot of the hill by living economically and constructively so that our economic burden will not"

There, admirably, would be the ultimatum of the November election.

That Mr. Saltonstall recognizes it and intends to pattern his administration accordingly must be encouraging not only to Republicans but also to Democrats and Independents.

Remarkable, indeed, was the absence of bitterness in the 27-page speech.

The Human Side of the News

Roosevelt The First

By EDWIN C. HILL

Copyright, 1939, King Features Synd., Inc.

EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO one of the truly great Presidents of the United States took the long, long trail—Theodore Roosevelt. And on this day, the anniversary of his passing, it is worth while, I think, to survey the milestones of his amazing and tempestuous career. In poor health and troubled with weak eyesight, he was a rancher in the Territory of Dakota in the 80s.

Of all his experiences in his crowded and exciting career, his happiest adventure was with the Rough Riders.

It was in 1915 that the politicians who hated him, tried to smash him with a libel suit brought by the most powerful Republican leader in the State of New York, William Barnes of Albany against Theodore Roosevelt of the United States.

DAY AFTER DAY, the most remarkable witness I ever saw under cross-examination, he turned his foes aside with utter ease. Elihu Root had warned them. When William M. Ivins, counsel for Mr. Barnes, accused by Roosevelt of being a corrupt boss, boasted that he was going to nail Roosevelt's hide to the fence, wise old Elihu Root said to Ivins:

"Let me give you a piece of advice. I know Roosevelt, and you want to be very sure that if in Roosevelt's hide you get on the fence."

As Elihu Root foresaw, it was not Roosevelt's hide that was nailed to the fence. The hide belonged to Mr. Barnes of Albany. Then came the World War, and the death in France of his son, Quentin.

Not many months were left to Theodore Roosevelt after the war ended.

On the wintry Sunday night of January Fifth, 1919, he was very weary and in great pain. He said to James Amos, his valet, "Don't you think I might go to bed now?"

MRS. ROOSEVELT was in and out, and about 11 o'clock kissed him good night. The house was lit entirely by old-fashioned lamps. Just after she left the room, he said "James will you please put out the light." His last words.

That very morning the private train of the King of Italy halted at the station in Milano. The newspaper men left their car to [illegible] platform [illegible] through a window of the royal coach they saw a telegraph messenger deliver a cablegram to the distinguished passenger whose triumphal tour of Italy they were reporting. They watched emotions ripple over his face as he read the message—surprise, pity, then something unfathomable.

The cablegram a sheet of blue flimsy, fluttered unregarded to the floor of the coach as the man who had read it stared into space. The news of the death of Theodore Roosevelt had come to Woodrow Wilson.

PRESIDENT THEODORE ROOSEVELT
"He Turned His Foes Aside With Utter Ease."

'Bugs' Baer Says:

FIFTY YEARS have gone by since Inspector Byrnes wrote the Delia Bacon affair off his books. And it was 50 years before that Delia was herself written off the books by the [illegible]

IT WAS [illegible] Aug. 12 [illegible] that Delia [illegible] better known as Helen Jewett, met her [illegible] Rose Robinson was [illegible] and acquitted. The Inspector says there was skullduggery in the verdict. What impressed the Inspector most was the beauty of the victim.

HER PULCHRITUDE must have been accumulative and impressive. For Inspector Byrnes was far less smitten with the beauty of the massacred lady than was an unknown newspaperman of the year 1836. He wrote of her many charms.

"SHE WAS A shade below the [illegible] height, but of a form exquisite symmetry, which, though [illegible] in every perfection [illegible] was stiff [illegible] dress in the costume to give her the full advantage of a medium stature in the eye."

ALL THIS loveliness was whacked on the head with an axe several times by a miscreant who had no ear for music. Arson was also included in the crime. The criminal must have reasoned that Dorsa, the toast of the town, should wind up on toast.

The Brighter Side

Would Spinsters Wed To Avoid Taxation?

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1939, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., [illegible] and [illegible])

IT IS OUR CONTENTION that Congress should impose a heavy tax on all unmarried ladies over 25 years of age. Some hold that the taxation should start at 20 but we think it is only fair to give the ladies a few years in which to sort o' look around.

I have reached the conclusion that the whole trouble with the matrimonial code in this country is the theory that the lady is supposed to be the pursued and the gentleman the pursuer, and the only way you can change this code is to make the ladies themselves do it. We believe the tax we suggest would accomplish that purpose.

THERE ARE millions of gentlemen in the United States of America who would like to get married but who do not know how to go about it. So, what happens?

Well, the gentleman becomes an ornery old bachelor and the lady gets herself a job and forgets about matrimony and the nation loses a splendid team of home builders who would have added materially to the tax collections over a period of years and perhaps to the population.

We say that if an unmarried lady knew her singleness would subject her to a tax she would speedily take an inarticulate swain in hand and make him talk up and there would be nothing any more immodest in this proceeding than there is in compliance with any other law.

YOU SEE, down through the years there has been an impression in this and other countries that the reason matrimony is retarded is the unwillingness of the gentlemen to enter into the married state. This impression is so firmly fixed that in some countries there is a special tax on bachelors and the same kind of tax has occasionally been suggested for the United States.

We would not object to a tax on bachelors if we thought their bachelordom was because of their reluctance to accept the duties and responsibilities of matrimony, but we are convinced that 95 per cent of them are wholly blameless. We believe that for every unmarried lady in the United States there are at least six gentlemen willing to marry her if they knew how to manipulate matters but were stopped by the ladies' stern adherence to the code aforesaid.

THE AVERAGE gentleman has more of an inferiority complex than the average lady. He is easily over-awed by her. The necessary words may frequently tremble on the tip of his tongue but he is afraid to say them lest he be deemed presumptuous in seeking possession of the beauty and brilliance that he sees in her. As long as the lady insists on standing coyly mute under the code, a gentleman like that is never going to get anywhere.

We claim that if the lady were nearing the taxable age for unmarried ladies, she would have that gentleman up before the parson in less time than it takes to say I DO, and then the government would have another going concern among its resources. There should be no unmarried ladies or gentlemen beyond, say, 25 years of age in any country if only for their governmental value.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

ALL THIS CLAMOR against war — I'd like to believe it would stick. But I've seen too much. Frankly I fear that most of us will go dancing drunk for battle at the first toot of the drums just as we've always done. Unless DAWN PATROL comes us.

No, it isn't just another war picture, this DAWN PATROL. There's something in it that really gets through . . . hits you where you live. That ghastly song I mentioned. If you can listen to that awful song and not hear the Dreads of it for life — well, I give up.

The thing starts simply enough. A shattered street somewhere in France," like a thousand others in 1918. Drizzly dawn . . . bits of wrecked buildings, dilapidated planes, emerging from the mist. Then abruptly you're past that strange silvery silence and into the blare and bellow of a room jam-packed with men. Or what's left of men when Wars get its fangs into them. Mouths gaping like grinning wounds above their necks. And out of those throats great, slobbering spurts of laughter . . . yowls, caterwauls, hemorrhages of laughter—"so a fellow wouldn't think."

THEN, capping that, that incredible song . . . Don't know the words, but I'll remember the refrain till I die. The sight and sound of them packed together . . . with the cracked record whining and their dead eyes staring . . . and those awful mouths wagging like wooden clappers—

"Umpety . . . ump . . . fa . . . tumpty—
"Dadeldy . . . doop . . . te . . . it
"A toast to the man who's here with you
"HURRAH FOR THE NEXT WHO DIES"

What a brute of a song! What an obscene desecration of all that men are or dream that they should have to sing a song like that or go mumbling mad.

For, don't delude yourself, they would have gone. Some of them had gone already. They'd seen too much . . . felt too much . . . since those first days when they'd come out, all aflame with fury and faith. Then, bit by bit, they'd gone dead inside. Seeing the beastliness of it all . . . the brazen hypocrisy and vicious indifference - And the broken bodies of the men they'd loved that were the prize of that indifference!

Little, little boys . . . going up and up to glory! Falling down and down to die! With one gasping, God-sent vision of the place they'd once called "home" . . . and one frightened, sobbing whisper, "Mother, help me! MOTHER - COME!"

Little boys dying in agony . . . men vomiting their agony in song . . . men and earth alike, blasted and despoiled of all future harvest. That is what War DOES.

Here is the Truth about War—"THE TRUTH THAT WILL SET MEN FREE"—

FREE FROM THE SLIMY SENTIMENTALITY THAT MAKES WAR SEEM BEAUTIFUL—AND THE FALSE PATRIOTISM THAT MAKES WAR SEEM NECESSARY—AND THE CRIMINAL INDIFFERENCE THAT MAKES IT POSSIBLE—FOR YOUR OWN SAKE AND YOUR COUNTRY!

BEATRICE LILLIE ALWAYS A FAVORITE WITH BOSTON AUDIENCES
"Set to Music," Starring Comedienne, a Sellout at the Shubert Theater

Girl About Town

by Ann Marsters

WE ALL KNOW that Boston audiences have a fine reputation. They are said to possess excellent critical judgment; exceptional taste and discrimination. We wonder how much longer Boston audiences will be able to keep that reputation. Because you see - it just isn't deserved.

Boston, as far as the theater is concerned, has become a city of sheep-critics, applauding the accepted "names," and failing to make any discoveries of its own.

Once upon a time, it was believed that if a new play or new musical succeeded in Boston, it would succeed in any city. But Boston's reception, good or bad, can no longer indicate ultimate success or failure.

THERE IS, of course, the enormous example of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," which opened here last season. It was a complete flop in Boston. In New York it played to a full house night after night — and was recognized as one of the finest plays of the year.

A while ago, Mr. Wilder brought another, greatly inferior play to Boston—"The Merchant of Yonkers" - and it did very well. It did well, not because it was good entertainment, but mainly because Jane Cowl is a Boston favorite.

Noel Coward and Beatrice Lillie are Boston favorites, too. So one of Coward's lesser achievements is currently a sell-out at the Shubert. But around the corner, at the Plymouth, there is a delightful play, called "Dear Octopus," in which Lucile Watson gives a magnificent performance. You'll find lots of empty seats.

JANUARY CLEARANCE

It's a dark and dreary season—
Christmas trees are in the gutter—
That's the fundamental reason
It's a dark and dreary season.
Though I slip my skates or skis on
Still I scowl and grimly mutter,
"It's a dark and dreary season,"
Christmas trees are in the gutter.

—MARGARET FISHBACK.

ANNICE BRINK, our Fashion Editor, has been telling me about her New Year's week-end at St. Sauveur, Quebec. She went to ski, and she met a lot of other Boston people who had the same idea. We asked her about the ski fashions, and she gave the following report:

Navy blue is the preferred color, with plus fours or the tighter-fitting "ski instructor" trousers. Many of the girls wore no hats. Quite a few wore bright-colored, fuzzy earmuffs. Most of the men wore caps - but there were also a few males in Scotch tams.

Blizzard vizors were having a large sale among the skiers. Annice says they make you look like someone from Mars; being transparent masks, covering your entire face and ending in a point below your chin. But they're fine to ski in if it's windy or if you have a delicate complexion.

Voice of Broadway

by Dorothy Kilgallen

ONLY IN MANHATTAN can you see: The silver point of the Chrysler spire needling the winter sky . . . Katharine Cornell, the greatest actress on the American stage, buying a loge ticket - to a grade B movie . . . Henry Ford, Jr., Edsel's son, jitterbugging to swing records in a booth at a phonograph shop . . . Film Czar Will Hays ordering milk in a swank bar . . . Ann Corio, the strip tease artiste, haughtily refusing a cigaret . . . Jack Dempsey, watching himself fight, in the newsreels at his Broadway bar . . .

ARTURO TOSCANINI soothing his little dog, who has a disagreeable temper . . . Peggy Hopkins Joyce, gracefully lifting her hand for an admirer to kiss . . . Eddy Duchin, hatless, walking down Fifth avenue to his luncheon . . . Abraham Sofaer, the original "Disraeli" of "Victoria Regina," claiming his hat from Rence, the literary hat check girl at Sardi's who is writing a new book called "Take A Tip From Me." . . . Eve Sully, the comedienne, executing a hot Conga with one of the professionals at the Versailles, while her husband, Jesse Block, grins encouragement . . . Zorina, her torso cloaked in ermine, in a conversational huddle with Robert (Oscar Wilde) Morley, who may soon have another Oscar—the Academy Award kind—to his credit, for his supporting performance in "Marie Antoinette" . . . Cab Calloway, the Adolphe Menjou of Harlem, making ten suit changes during the course of one Cotton Club show . . .

ERZA STONE, the problem child of "What A Life," breakfasting in the Astor bar—on toasted English muffins and orange marmalade, the color of his hair . . . Jane Cowl, looking chic under a shocking pink hat-brim . . . Lauritz Melchior, in his dressing-room at the Met, drinking tall glasses of pineapple juice before going on . . .

JASCHA HEIFETZ, the violinist, playing a hot accordion in his Park avenue apartment . . . Lupe Velez, cuddling on Shipwreck Kelly's shoulder as they dance, wearing diamonds from her knuckles to her funnybone . . . Al Smith making his nightly rounds of the Central Park Zoo at 9:30 sharp, locking up the animals with his special key . . . The coachman on the Plaza, bowing frigidly to a hack driver . . . Jimmy Cagney, at El Morocco bragging to Beatrice Kaufman about his Martha's Vineyard farm . . . The bonfires blazing on the curbs of the lower East Side, started by children, taken over by the vagrants in the neighborhood . . . The six blue singing angels in "I Married An Angel" . . . Mrs. Emily Post, dining out in a smart hotel restaurant, and picking up the right fork self-consciously, because people always watch her, hoping she'll make a mistake . . . Blonde Benay Venuta, humming as she waltzes through the stage door of the Henry Miller . . . George Metaxa, fox-trotting sombrely at Chez Firehouse . . . Peter Arno, under the palms at El Morocco, telling a girl, "You don't know me—I just want to tell you I love you!"

A POOR SPEECH

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

[illegible] the [illegible] for parts of [illegible] there [illegible] I [illegible] to Congress [illegible]

[illegible] are in danger [illegible] the sound [illegible] the sound made [illegible] of the [illegible]

[illegible] to forget [illegible] the power [illegible] old as [illegible] is [illegible] the threat [illegible] personal advantage [illegible] most unselfish [illegible] is not creditable.

Surely [illegible] must strengthen [illegible] There will be no [illegible] against that. But [illegible] need any swaggering [illegible] nothing before the [illegible] to [illegible] speeches by Mr. Lewis supported by our State Department against nations with [illegible] we are at least [illegible] at peace. It doesn't [illegible] to our own people [illegible] the President more than [illegible] of any sudden or immediate attack.

FROM MY OBSERVATION of Mr. Roosevelt I believe that he regards himself potentially as a great war leader. There is much to suggest and especially in his Wednesday's message to Congress, that he would not be averse to going down in history as a war President. I am not at all sure that he would not be a good, if amateur military commander.

But I would hate to go into a war with him as President not because of him but because of the insane incompetents and nincompoops with whom he insists on surrounding himself to the end that only his will shall prevail and he alone shall shine.

Mr. Roosevelt first waved the bloody-shirt and then marshalled in more or less definite form every item of his discredited and defeated 1937 program.

Prominent in this was the Eccles theory discussed in this place several days ago, that the colossal debt of the United States is not dangerous and that the unbearable spending and tax burdens are a blessing rather than a curse. If that is true, every lesson of public and private housekeeping since the beginning of history is false.

I WOULD RATHER believe the record of the sins than the preaching of either Mr. Eccles or Mr. Roosevelt—and especially the latter.

I know of nothing in his personal record since his birth that indicates any experience or accomplishment whatever which qualifies him to suggest the management of financial affairs and I know very much in the record since 1933 which disqualifies him.

There is not enough space here to discuss the whole message. Weakness peers through every sentence. Hitherto the personal prestige and popularity of the President were sufficient to give weight to his words. Now it takes an appeal to patriotism based on a threat of war.

Friends Respond To Cheer, Good Nature

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am 21 years of age, and according to many of my friends I am not bad looking, but I don't seem to meet any of the nice young men. My girl friends tell me I'm too old-fashioned because I don't care to drink or smoke. I find most of my enjoyment in going to shows and spending evenings at home in friendly conversation, but it seems the boys nowadays don't want that kind of fun.

I am employed in a business office, and see the same people every day. Clubs don't interest me much either. How does one go about meeting nice young men?

LONELY HEART.

This may seem a little unsympathetic to you, my dear, but I believe part of your trouble is your own aloofness. Most people nowadays, are responsive to good nature and a cheerful frame of mind. The world is full of gay young folks who don't even think of drinking or smoking, or leading what is called a "wild" life. If you're happy and look on the pleasant side of life, you will soon attract the right sort of friends.

Personal Accessories

Since it's distinctive to be personal in your accessories let initials mark things as your own. This filet chair set pattern also contains a complete alphabet. And you can use the same design as scarf ends, too. Of course you can leave out the initials if you prefer. Pattern 1946 contains charts and directions for making set; materials required; illustration of stitches.

Rest Cure for Neurasthenics

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ACCORDING to the medical catalogue of fifty years ago, neurasthenia was a condition of nerve exhaustion. That, of course, is exactly what the name means—asthenia of the nervous system. According to most books on psychology, so-called neurasthenia can no longer be found.

The [illegible] with the conception that while the neurasthenic is always tired, he never does anything which really causes fatigue.

The amount of damage that fatigue can do differs with the different periods of life. In middle age, when the capacity for recuperation from fatigue slackens, when people become aware too late that they have lost the resilience of youth, neurasthenia may justly be said to be caused by overwork.

Personality also has a great deal to do with the ability to endure fatigue. A study of the lives of great creative geniuses would indicate that many of them suffered from periods of neurasthenia as the result of the labor of writing words on paper at a desk or of executing combinations of sounds on a musical instrument—but of the tremendous expenditure of emotional energy that goes with creative work. Few people can work at so high a tension. The average mind has not a sufficiently sensitive mind to bring on a nervous breakdown from this reason.

Whatever the cause of the nature the neurasthenic is always tired, he is always below par; he always complains somewhat of some part of his body. He is a typical guest at the feast, the "sourpuss."

In spite of many psychotherapeutic methods, such as psychoanalysis, perhaps the best method of treatment for neurasthenics is the old one of Weir Mitchell, the rest cure. There are three essential features of the Weir Mitchell cure: (1) rest (2) isolation, (3) overfeeding. The cure is known in America as the rest cure; in France as the "isolation cure," and in England as the overfeeding cure, each nation emphasizing the feature it feels to be paramount.

Nowadays design and color play an important part in the sale of almost everything. Therefore the artist who designs merchandise or illustrates advertising has become a real factor in modern industry. Machines can never displace him. Many Federal students, both men and girls who are now commercial designers or illustrators earning up to $5000 yearly have been trained by the Federal Course. Here's a wonderful opportunity to test your talent. Read the rules, and send your drawing to the address below.

RULES

This contest open only to amateurs, 16 years old or more. Professional commercial artists and federal students are not eligible.

1. Make drawing of girl 6 inches high, on paper 7 inches high. Draw only the girl, not the lettering.
2. Use only pencil or pen.
3. No drawings will be returned.
4. Print your name, address, age and occupation on back of drawing.
5. All drawings must be received by Jan. 31st, 1939. Prizes will be awarded for drawings best in proportion and neatness by Federal Schools faculty.

Paramount, Fenway Offer Sterling Films

Anita Louise, looking like a princess out of a fairy tale—are you listenin', honey?—and Dick Powell, and Louis Armstrong, Maxine Sullivan, Kay Francis and John Litel, have all arrived at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters in a tasty little double dish called, respectively, Going Places" and "Comet Over Broadway."

Those names represent a lot of talent, and the two pictures represent a lot of show.

"Going Places" is a kind of filmy show about an advertising man in a sports clothes house who gets the idea of giving the company's boots and saddles a sort of boost by appearing at a hunt meet as a famous gentleman jockey. That's Dick Powell.

Riding is the last occupation in the world he has in mind, and it's the first trouble he falls into. He meets up with an exceedingly nasty-tempered nag whom he finally trumpets to victory and a whole raft of charming folk who have no place in the picture whatever, but who add immeasurably to its gaiety.

The second picture, with Kay Francis, Mr. Litel and Ian Hunter, is about a woman whose husband is sent up for a murder he committed over her. It's a tale of how she gives up her second love and all the fame the world can offer to go back to her husband. I'd

GORGEOUS WARDROBE FEATURES LOEW'S 'SHINING HOUR'

Bevy of Stars On Two Bills

By PEGGY DOYLE

That's very little sparkle in M-G-M's "The Shining Hour" despite the five glittering box-office names and the gold they put into its making.

With Dramatic Value

The other not so entertaining Metro offering, "The Shining Hour," opened a week's run yesterday at Loew's State and Orpheum screens. The latter has an excellent cast headed by Joan Crawford, Margaret Sullavan, Robert Young, Melvyn Douglas and Fay Bainter. With the exception of Miss Sullavan whose Judy Linden is the only four-dimensional characterization, the pictures gaudily promoted stars fail to deliver.

"Joan Crawford comes again!" So what? When Miss Crawford acts again that'll be news. Handling the most gorgeous wardrobe of the season, dockeyed in the most streamlined classic style, Miss Crawford is a picture every instant but for one minute. She never gives you an opportunity to take her or her trappings seriously.

Possibly she was cast by Hunnicutt altogether for the part it must be admitted the emotion is overwhelming and convincing. It is the hot-house tragedy of a glamorous night-club singer who gives up Broadway, fame and adulation to marry a wealthy Young farmer with Stone Face around. She is bored stiff during a succession of flat tires and immediately meets with opposition from the Independence family. And right here the script goes berserk, having given everybody the right and time necessary to lose it when it comes to the heavy hand of her in-law.

And what's more the mother-in-law played by Judy Conklin makes love to the poor dear's husband before leaving your wife to in the matter of finding a career for Miss Crawford.

Melvyn Douglas as Miss Crawford's farmer husband is to be forgiven. Late shooter upper either. It is absolutely candid to pass rather stuffy throughout and we say this though we chance to be Melvyn partisan in his favor.

Sorry but we can't work up any more enthusiasm for Dramatic School, which costars Luise Rainer and Paulette Goddard.

Met's 'Kentucky' Is Real Technicolor Treat

Next best thing to attending a Kentucky Derby is to see the film of all the excitement and thrills, beauty and color that comes to the Metropolitan Theater. It is the newest Technicolor achievement of Americolor pioneer Inspiration.

Much of the picture was filmed at or in the vicinity of the famous track at Louisville which accounts for the strong flavor of authenticity that permeates it.

Loretta Young, Richard Greene and Walter Brennan get the star billing in "Kentucky," but there are names not mentioned in the cast which are equally famous throughout the world. The cast of horses includes Edith Bailey, owned for this picture in right out of the equine "Who's Who" to wit: Hardtack, one of the great Seabiscuit, Steeple Chaser Sled Exquisite, Gallant Fox the $5,000 imported sire Bonheur, and Cavalcade who won the Kentucky Derby.

Miss Young and Greene are the interesting offspring of a couple of feudist families with proud Blue Grass taking. They are ordinarily at home in their well-bred surroundings predominately the generous Loretta and thus add considerably to the picture's pictorial and entertainment values.

Just as in the old Academy Award stealer Walter Brennan as Loretta's horse-wise uncle Pete Goodair, who rates right out in front as the winner in the Kentucky cast. His is a salty, perfect role that gives Irish and

Victim of Dodd Auto Will Sue

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 6 (INS)—William E. Dodd, former ambassador to Germany, will be made a defendant in a heavy suit for damages as a "hit-and-run driver," it was announced today by Attorney George E. Haw, counsel for the parents of Gloria Grimes, four-year-old Negro girl seriously injured by an automobile on December 5.

The amount demanded probably will be $50,000.

A check for $25 which Dodd sent to Mrs. James Grimes, mother of the injured girl, was returned to the diplomat.

Dodd was arrested on a hit-and-run charge, by a state trooper the day after the accident, at his Round Hill, Va., home.

The girl is in serious condition in St. Philip Hospital in Richmond. She was unconscious for several days after the accident. Her speech was affected and her left leg is paralyzed. She is able to move her left arm only slightly.

COURT HEARING SET

Dodd is scheduled to be given a hearing at Hanover court house, Va., near where the accident occurred, next Tuesday.

The case has aroused considerable feeling because Dodd is alleged to proceeded on his way immediately after the accident. He was taken into custody the next day at his home by a trooper.

The former ambassador, in a statement to the officer, said he was traveling through Hanover court house at 45 to 50 miles an hour when the child ran in front of the car.

His car skidded and he stated he could not tell whether the child was struck by his car or by a car which was following him. The second car was driven by Mrs. Winston Woolfolk of Caroline county.

DISLIKED PUBLICITY

Dodd declared little Miss Grimes had not appeared to be seriously injured and inasmuch as he had an "important engagement" in Petersburg, he continued on his way.

He explained to the police officer that he did not give his name and address to anyone because he wanted to avoid newspaper publicity.

He told the [illegible] officer he [illegible] and [illegible] would bear [illegible] $5.

He subsequently did send a check for $25 to the victim's mother, but it was returned to him.

Dodd stated that he returned to his car after he had left the scene of the accident and could not find any marks on the car indicating anyone. He contended that dents found on the fender had been made in a previous accident.

CHARGE CAR REPAIRED

[illegible] that he had his car repaired two days after the Grimes girl was injured.

The father of the injured girl is unemployed. The mother was away doing housework to keep her brood in sustenance. The Grimes have seven children, ranging from a year and a half to 14 years of age.

[illegible] Grimes [illegible] of having [illegible] the day of the accident and of [illegible] to the hand and [illegible]

[illegible] stated that [illegible] one wing [illegible] at the time and one [illegible] Mrs. Woolfolk was driving the [illegible] the second car. [illegible] Mrs. Woolfolk was [illegible] dressing [illegible] a felony.

Bates Asks Change On Yachting Law

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Representative Bates (R.) of Massachusetts today sought congressional authority to exempt fishing and pleasure boats under 200 tons from provisions of an international treaty which would require them to carry licensed officers.

The international treaty, which becomes effective next November 1, would require more licensed officers on yachts and fishing vessels [illegible] look after [illegible]

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

IT WAS "SALTONSTALL NIGHT" in at least three of the town's popular rendezvous . . . The Ritz Bar, the Brown Derby and the Copley-Plaza's Merry-Go-Round benefited most from the Governor's Ball by the First Corps Cadets at the Armory . . . All three places were crowded before 11 o'clock . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

The Latin Quarter, the Cocoanut Grove and the Mayfair [illegible] unexpected patronage, also . . . More so than in other years, early leave-taking from the colorful annual function sponsored by the Corps spread the town with gentlemen bedecked in gay uniforms, and ladies heavy with mink . . .

The ball was the customary brilliant affair . . . The many early departures were explainable by the desire of many groups of guests to wine, dine and/or dance in parties of their own making . . . Or many may have left early to duck the inevitable Lambeth Walk.

Hon. Thomas W. White of Newton, sage of the Republican party since the days of Calvin Coolidge on Beacon Hill, adjourned to the Copley-Plaza Merry-Go-Round . . . Adviser to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, and chief guide of the Saltonstall campaign, the Newton man approved the appointment of Professor [illegible] Frankfurter in all counts, not excepting the political . . . He thinks that the resignation of Justice Louis Brandeis may be exp[illegible]

Former Governor Ely was the only prominent Democrat your reporter noted among the score or so of Republican prominents at the Merry-Go-Round . . .

So Soon?

Governor Ely was one of the group of former Governors (Foss, Cox, and Curley were the others) addressed by one of Governor Saltonstall's military aides, who was impatient at the delay in the Governor's office before the swearing-in . . .

"Will all you former Governors line up against the wall so we can get this procession started?" the aide demanded.

"Out of office, and out of a name!" mused former Governor Curley, loud enough to be heard . . . There was a general laugh, and the procession was organized.

Once Over Lightly:

The Harvard student who has reason to be most elated at the [illegible] appointment probably is Ed Lahey, the former Chicago newspaperman enrolled as a Lucius W. Nieman fund protege . . .

On the fly leaf of a book written by Professor Frankfurter, an inscription reads: "To Ed Lahey—who is educating me at Harvard" . . .

John Royal, vice-president in charge of production for NBC, has asked Hubert Valentine, the Irish tenor, to confer in New York on a radio hookup. Valentine made his American debut at Symphony Hall in November . . . Joe Cronin [illegible] with Tommy O'Keefe at Jimmie's Boylston street grill after viewing the film, "The First Century of Baseball" at the City Club.

"On Borrowed Time" will not play Boston at all. The local ban on child actors is responsible. It would have been necessary to cast a dwarf in the child's role, on which the success of the fantasy largely depends . . . A generally more strict surveillance of nightclub acts has been ordered . . .

It might be advisable to stock up on perishable foods. The column is told that the truck-drivers' strike will not be settled before next Wednesday, if by that time . . .

And the city council will be without a new president after next Monday's meeting . . . It may take at least a week to whip the City Fathers into majority-shape . . .

MR. BOSTON

Jimmy Foxx Will Come to Terms ⋮ Tom Yawkey Will Close Deal Soon

By JACK CONWAY

JIMMY FOXX IS asking $40,000 a year from the Red Sox but will take less . . . Double X argues that if he is to get the top money this is the time for him to demand it . . . I do not believe Tom Yawkey will quibble over a few thousand dollars either way when he talks contract with Foxx, and I know that Foxx will give the Sox owner the utmost consideration.

Mr. Boston

Yawkey has been one of the squarest persons in the world in his business relationships with his players . . . He has been generous with them in the matter of salaries, and when they have failed to deliver on the diamond as a result of some condition beyond their control, he has not criticized them.

I shall always like Yawkey for the generous way he treated "Lefty" Grove when the latter came up with a sore arm after having been purchased by the Sox for $100,000.

"How do you feel about Grove?" a reporter asked Yawkey.

"I am very sorry for 'Lefty,'" answered Yawkey, "as the trouble with his arm may end his baseball career. That would be a real tragedy for 'Lefty.'"

The reporter mentioned that such a happening would cost Yawkey his $100,000 investment in Grove.

"That's only money," replied Tom. "A ball player's future to himself is more important than $100,000 is to me."

At various times when Yawkey has been chided for spending almost $4,000,000 to give Boston a pennant winner, he has come back with the statement that it was his money, and if he wished to spend it for ball players, concrete stands and to give work to men that it was his own business.

Yawkey and Foxx have been close friends . . . They have gone on hunting trips together, and have spent much time in each other's company . . . They may decide to toss a coin to decide whether Foxx will sign for $25,000 or $50,000 a year . . . Jimmy is entitled to a raise, but $50,000 is a bit too steep even for Yawkey . . . Boston has its limitations in the matter of baseball salaries.

McCoy Says He Can Stop Knox

AL McCOY, New England heavyweight champion, says he will resume boxing after a ten-day stay in the Maine woods . . . McCoy says he will stop Knox in a return bout.

"I almost knocked Knox out in the third round of our bout at the Garden," said Al . . . "I had Buddy in poor condition, and if I could have put over one more right hand punch to the jaw the bout would have had an abrupt ending . . . Knox is a good hitter and young, but if we meet again I shall score a knockout."

Pat Foley, who recently gave Paul Junior a torrid battle in Portland, should prove a good card for the new boxing club in Worcester . . . Foley is aggressive and punches well with each hand . . . George Kid Lee of Worcester, former New England welterweight champion, is one of Foley's chief boosters.

Lou Smith does not expect to receive any serious racing opposition in the New Hampshire Legislature . . . Smith has conducted racing on a high plane in the Granite state, and he has the support of those persons interested in sports . . . It will be the latter part of January before

Rudy Dusek Barrier To Sonny's Comeback

By JACK CONWAY

Gus Sonnenberg, who [illegible] Garden favorite [illegible] comeback campaign tonight when he will battle Rudy Dusek in a finish bout to a finish at the Garden.

Sonnenberg has displayed quite a flair for the game in his bouts which only three months ago he was the champion and the title from Lewis.

GUS SPEEDIER

With less poundage Gus has picked up speed. He now looks like a threat when he steps into the ring with Dusek tonight.

Jim Casey

Dusek is the latest wrestler to experience trouble biting off the Sonnenberg cash. Dusek has established himself on his strong body tonight.

He will need these assets tonight, as Sonnenberg is going to get his fastest pace in an effort to prove he is entitled to a title match with Steve Casey.

CASEY IN FOR SESSION

The Shadow," sensational mystery man of the mat, will oppose Jim Casey of Ireland in another main bout. Bill Stewart Back; Plans Florida Trip

By BILL GRIMES

Bill Stewart stepped jauntily off the train at Back Bay station this afternoon. He had just arrived from Chicago, where he had been dropped as manager of the Chicago Blackhawks after directing them to the Stanley Cup championship in his only year at the helm.

"I hated to get fired," Bill admitted. "I don't believe I deserved it. But I didn't quit, as McLaughlin wanted me to do, and as a result I have this."

He produced a check for $400 . . . accepted the payment on a one-year contract with the Hawks calling for $7500 a year.

"That takes away some of the sting," he smiled.

"Before I go out to Gallivan boulevard I want you to know it wasn't Bill Tobin who put the knife in me.

"Tobin's a square shooter. He's got a wife and kids, and to protect them he has to follow McLaughlin's orders. McLaughlin's the boy.

"Listen to this one.

"With 1:20 to go in the third period against Canadiens, last week, Babe Siebert let one fly at goalie Mike Karakas. Our Earl Seibert, a defenseman, skated in front of Karakas, blocking his vision. The puck went in, and I was blamed for it.

"That was when he suggested I run the club from the balcony. Perhaps he wanted me to put strings on the players so I could twist them around like marionettes.

"That was the blowoff."

BILL STEWART

Bill plans a well-earned vacation. He has his National Baseball League umpire's contract but he is awaiting the return from Europe of President Frick. Ford before he returns it.

He wants to see if he can get out of umpiring pre-season games in the South.

He plans to leave for Florida with Mrs. Stewart around February 1 and stay there until just before the opening of the baseball season.

For years he has been on the jump spring, summer, fall and winter.

This is his first vacation for so long he can't remember. He plans to make the most of it.

Bees Transfer Erie Farm

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 6 (AP)—The Erie franchise in the Middle Atlantic Baseball League was transferred today from the Boston Bees to Leo T. Miller, president of the Indianapolis club of the American Association and the management of the Cincinnati Reds.

Miller, a former Erie man who broke into baseball as owner of the Erie franchise in the Central League in 1929, announced the purchase.

The Bees operated the Erie club as a "farm" last year, transferring their Middle Atlantic League franchise here from Zanesville, O.

Lavallee Shows Wares On Sunday

An event of great significance in view of the great Silver Skates derby of Sunday Jan 22 at the Boston Garden comes this Sunday afternoon when the second annual Rhode Island outdoor speed skating championships are conducted at Roger Williams Park, Providence.

A large number of men and women Silver Skaters will be competing in the Rhode Island championships.

Among those who will be seeking Sunday's top honors will be Lee LaVallee of Providence winner of the 1937 Silver Skates championship at Boston Garden and Earl Bloom of Newark, Conn., winner of last years 10p senior title honors.

ENTRIES POUR IN

Entries for the Derby are coming in fast but those that mean the most are slow in coming. They can come in fast to the tune of 1,000 entries and still not mean much. Among today's were:

Lee LaVallee Sr. and Lee Jr. both of Providence, Rhode Island; Earl Bloom, Meriden, Conn.; Lynne O'Leary, and Doris Hazel, both of Meriden.

Lee is the only one of the above mentioned entries left as a senior, both Lee and Earl are entered in the famous barrel jumping event which includes Lee and Earl. Among last years winners of Silver Skates will be:

Other entries were Lewis Azzi, 11 West Fairview, R. Toronto Tackles Harvard

College hockey grabs the spotlight at the Boston Arena tomorrow night when the famed varsity of Toronto clashes with Clark Hodder's Harvard stickmen in the first game of a double bill.

Boston College and Colby will meet in a New England Intercollegiate League battle following the Toronto-Harvard tilt.

Harvard's showing at Lake Placid against Princeton was encouraging to Coach Hodder. His charges dropped the first two battles by a one goal margin, but came with a rush in the third and final game to down the Tigers by a 4-1 count.

Coach Snooks Kelly's Eagles have not lived up to pre-season predictions so far this winter. They took a fine licking from Dartmouth at Rye, N. Y., and just week bowed to the Brown Bear by a 5-3 score.

Toronto Sextet Downs Olympics, 4-0

Toronto varsity hockey sextet made a successful Boston debut at the Garden defeating Legway and shutting out Olympics 4 to 0. Not particularly fast skaters the Canadian team relied mainly on a good passing attack to produce a goal in each of the first two periods and two more in the final session.

A small gathering witnessed the contest which produced little excitement and most of them appeared to be interested for the most part in the work of a quartet of Junior Olympics getting their first taste of fast competition.

Chief Thompson stars Owen Evans, Sullivan and Bob Moe were the outstanding feature, promotion of individual themes was in good fashion.

Sullivan captured the first three counts while Moe saw service on the points from time to time and it was he, who early started the ... that Boss Olympics had in speed or deception.

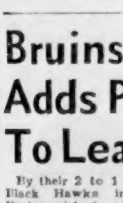
Bruins' Win Adds Point To Lead

By their 2 to 1 victory over the Black Hawks in Chicago, the Bruins picked up another point on Rangers and are now two and one-half games out in front in the National Hockey League. Although there were three N. H. L. games played last night, the Bruins - Hawks conflict was the only one that reached a decision.



Bobby Bauer

Down in New York, Detroit Red Wings came from behind to get a draw with the Americans, and the Rangers duplicated that feat in Montreal to pull up on even terms with Les Canadiens.

Woody Dumart put the Bruins in the lead late in the first period when he converted a pass from Bobby Bauer. But, after a scoreless second period, Desilets, Shill and Manager Thompson staged a three-man attack, and the first named scored the equalizer in the 14th minute.

With less than two minutes to go, Mel Hill, the slippery right winger, soloed through the Hawks to score the deciding goal.

Late in the second period at Madison Square Garden, the Americans were leading the Red Wings 5 to 1, and it looked very much as though Tiny Thompson was going to get another trimming.

But Manager Dutton's squad, numbering only 13 players, faded from extra duty and, about halfway through the final session, the Wings were out in front 6 to 5. Then Tommy Anderson saved the day for the Americans by scoring on a five-man power play.

Five minutes after the third period face-off in Montreal, the Rangers were two goals down to Les Canadiens. Georges Mantha counted for the Frenchmen in the first period, and then Jimmy Ward beat Davie Kerr early in the third chapter.

School Sextets Dominate Ice

Divided between two loves, schoolboy followers will be forced to make a choice tomorrow afternoon as the two senior hockey circuits take to the ice at the Garden and Arena for four-game programs at 1 o'clock.

The Greater Boston boys, beginning to hit their real stride, conduct their fourth session at the North Station while the Bay Staters simmer the third gong at the St. Botolph street rink.

In the opening games at the Garden, Rindge Tech faces Stoneham while Belmont meets Arlington. The last half doubleheader has Newton battling Medford with Melrose clashing against Cambridge Latin.

The card at the Arena pits Framingham and Watertown; Wellesley and Needham; B. C. High and Walpole, and Quincy and Waltham.

ARLINGTON FACES BELMONT

Arlington, leading the Greater Boston circuit, faces a real test in Belmont. Coach Polly Harris' club, led by Dick Henry, Carl Westlund and Johnny Murphy, is undefeated in its three starts and may hand the Downs' crew its first setback of the season.

Defending champion Rindge Tech appears doomed for its fourth straight defeat against Stoneham. Joe Tole, Bob Bingham, Bill McLaughlin and Johnny Russell carry a fast attack for the Doc Gordon six that should add a notch in the win column.

Newton will be seeking its first victory of the season, opening the second half against Medford in a game that should be close through to the last whistle.

MELROSE MEETS CANTABS

Melrose and Cambridge Latin should offer one of the fastest contests of the afternoon. Melrose, after being driven from its place in the league leadership, will be anxious to resume its place, while the Cantabs, with Phil Carey in the nets, offer a tough proposition to all foes.

At the Arena, the opening game of Watertown and Framingham promises to steal the spotlight, Framingham was kayoed from the top of the circuit in the final minutes of play last week and Bob Slade, Tom O'Connor and Co. will be back for revenge.

With Bob Schmalz leading the attack, Needham should continue its hot pace against Wellesley in the second game on the card.

Ed Onion and Dick Harrison, on the Walpole first line, should find the B. C. High team to their liking unless the Eaglets display a complete reversal of form from last week's showing.

The final game with Quincy tussling with Waltham should be a fine nightcap. Although beaten last week, the Granite City outfit showed promise with Charlie Erwin and Charlie Winslow leading the attack.

B. U. Coach Wants Goal Posts on Line

By MURRAY KRAMER

Old man football has died rather a sudden death. Sports thoughts are now elsewhere, and the grid hysteria will not break anew until next fall.

Yet, football is entitled to some consideration in view of the fact that two rule changes have been made.

Knowing that a football coach talks football twelve months in the year, a visit to Pat Hanley, Boston University's popular grid mentor, soon brought to light an interpretation of the two new rules.

"That first rule, which requires the linemen from tackle to tackle to remain on the line of scrimmage on a forward pass play until the aerial is completed, is great in many ways, but also needs some clarification.

"In the first place the line of scrimmage is only imaginary unless a club should line up on a chalk stripe. And then, too, there is a line of scrimmage for the offensive team and another for the outfit on defense.

"If the rule means that the offensive team must remain on its own line of scrimmage that would be rather tough on the club putting the ball in play, for the line would not even be able to charge across the neutral zone.

"There is no doubt in my mind, though, that there will be a clarification on this point.

HELPS BOTH TEAMS

"A first glance at this rule makes it appear it will favor the defensive team, in view of the fact that ineligible linemen will not be able to sneak down the field and bewilder the secondary. But it will also help the offensive team, in that the linemen will stay where they belong and carry out their line blocks and assignments.

"This edict will also encourage the screen pass behind the line of scrimmage, which is perfectly legal.

"Now, as to the second ruling, which states that when a forward pass touches an ineligible receiver, there shall be a loss of down and a 15-yard penalty from the spot of the preceding down.

"This bit of legislation was necessary with the first ruling and is just. The previous ruling, which was loss of ball, was a bit too stringent."

And that ended Pat's comment on the new rulings, but when you get a football coach started, it's a cinch that he isn't going to stop after merely explaining a couple of new rules.

WOULD PROTECT PASSER

"I still would like to have seen a bit more protection for the passer and the goal posts moved back to the goal line, but let's hope these will come in time.

PAT HANLEY

Budge Set-Up, Vines Figures

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 6 (INS)—His halo of invincibility in the tennis world shattered by a straight-set defeat at the hands of Ellsworth Vines, lanky red-headed Don Budge today asserted he was not discouraged by his first setback in professional tennis ranks.

"Not a man on earth could have beaten Vines last night," remarked Budge after taking a 6—3, 6—3, 6—4 shellacking here from his fellow Californian in their professional tour meeting.

"I have no alibi, and I'm going to go right ahead doing the best I can during the rest of the tour."

Vines reiterated his determination to retire from pro tennis if Budge, a first-year man in the pay-for-play game, wins the majority of their scheduled 60-odd matches.

The national professional tennis champion expressed belief that staleness accounted for his first two defeats by Budge in New York and Boston.

"I don't think Budge is the smartest player in the world," asserted Vines. "In fact, I believe I'll kick the pants off him before our series is ended."

He pictured Don as a steady player, who "just keeps hitting them back" until his opponent makes an error.

Ferrell, Arm O.K., Sees Happy Year

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP)—Wes Ferrell, temperamental right-hander, still a little peeved because of his unconditional release from the Washington Senators last mid-season, let it be known today that 1939 will see him out in front for the New York Yankees, who took him on.

WES FERRELL

Ferrell said a recent operation to an ailing elbow was entirely successful, and predicted he will be a regular starting moundsman with the world champions this summer.

"There's no pain at all," he said. "I can move my arm in any position, and it doesn't bother me.

"For the first time in six years I can use my normal windup, swinging my arms over my head.

"For the past couple of years I've been obliged to wind up by pulling my arm in front of my chest. Naturally that cramped my style."

Although he admitted he didn't do so bad financially last year, he is still bitter at Clark Griffith for releasing him from the Senators. Wes got a cut of the World Series cash when he joined the Yanks.

"If Griffith had told me he wanted to get rid of me," Farrell said, "I'd have been glad to pay him the waiver price of $7500 for my release.

"Instead, he gave me an unconditional release and made it appear I was washed up.

"I'm only 30 years old and I know I'm not through. Last year I won 15 games and lost 10, spending most of the season with a sixth place club."

An enthusiastic golfer, Ferrell plans to practice daily preparatory to entering the annual baseball players tournament in Lakeland next month. He won the 1936 title, played here.

Paul Waner, the Pittsburgh outfielder whose winter home is also here, is the present champion.

Wes' mother and father, who live at Guilford, N. C., are here with him.

Conn 167 3-4, Apostoli 160 1-2

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (INS)—A favorite in the betting, Fred Apostoli of California will climb through the ropes on the short end of the weights tonight for his ten-round clash with Billy Conn, youthful Pittsburgh aspirant to Apostoli's middleweight crown, which is recognied only in New York tSate.

Apostoli weighed in at 160½ this afternoon, as against 167¾ for Conn. However, Apostoli still ruled a favorite.

Grid Giants Sued by U. S.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—An eight-count information against the New York Football Giants, Inc., was filed by Assistant U. S. Attorney Jesse Moss today charging the sale of eight tickets for admission to the championship game between the Giants and the Green Bay Packers last Dec. 11 at prices in excess of the printed fave-value of the tickets.

Conviction on the information, which carries the same force as an indictment, would involve a maximum penalty of fine totalling $2400.

In addition to the corporation, the information cited Helen Mara, niece of John Mara, president of the Giants, and Charles Chaplin, a clerk.

Federal agents said an investigation of the Giants' books would be started next week under an order issued by Judge Alfred C. Coxe.

Two Sunday Walks Arranged by M.D.C.

Two interesting walks are scheduled on the Sunday program of the Metropolitan District Commission and the WPA Recreational Division.

In the morning at 11 o'clock a group will participate in a distance hike starting from the base of Great Blue Hill, while in the afternoon the nature lovers will assemble at the junction of LaGrange and Washington streets, Roslindale, for a nature tour of the Stony Brook reservation.

Terrier Star Spurns Letter For Glee Club

Biggest chuckle of the season—a promising Boston University sophomore diving prospect, suddenly quit swimming practice for no apparent reason . . . when the case was investigated by Coach Jack Wallace, he found that this young man had decided that diving bothered his sinus somewhat, which, in turn, affected his singing . . . now, it so happens that some of the Glee Club trips are better than those of the swimming team, so this individual gave up all chances for a varsity letter.

See where Art Cochrane's Tufts basketball team has now won three in a row . . . it's Harvard tomorrow night, and the Crimson is favored, but there should be a real tussle . . . The Jumbos have a standout in Charley Hibbs, a Weymouth boy, who has arms that would be the envy of a guest at a boarding house meal.

They certainly work in an odd way over in New York . . . Boston College has always been famed for its two mile relay teams, yet the Millrose Games committee invited the one-mile quartet only . . . incidentally they're branching out athletically at the Heights . . . boxing and basketball will be added in another year . . . at present they have an informal freshman hoop team coached by Ed Galligan, freshman football coach.

A word of praise should be given Henry McCarthy, basketball coach at M. I. T. . . . his Engineers have only been beaten once this year and boast of a victory over Harvard . . . this is quite remarkable in view of the fact that it is only on rare occasions that the squad can practice together because of classes, and training rules cannot be observed for these lads generally "hit the books" until the wee hours of the morning . . . in fact just before one of the games when the team was due to go on the floor, Henry went down to the dressing room and found two of his regulars in a corner puzzling over an intricate engineering problem . . . never let it be said that there is an overemphasis at M. I. T.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (INS)—More than 50 skaters today began displaying their polished intricacies on ice as the Eastern amateur figure skating championships opened in New York.

Closest competition was expected in the women's senior singles where seven of the nation's leading skaters are competing.

Shipstad Class Of Ice Performers

When Roy Shipstad joined "Ice Follies" three years ago for the first national tour, the producers of the big skating extravaganza felt that they had signed the greatest living skater.

Now with the "Ice Follies" on tour in its third annual production Shipstad is nationally recognized throughout North America as the world's greatest artist on silver blades.

Shipstad is one of the stars of sixty in the cast of "Ice Follies of 1939" which opens at Boston Garden next Wednesday for a five-day run, including matinees on January 14 and 15.

Not yet twenty-seven years of age, Shipstad is a slim, youthful figure on the ice, whether he is wearing flaming tinselled sequins, his Spanish costume or in any of his other classic numbers.

The world has never seen a skater who performs with greater ease, rhythm or more complete relaxation.

Shipstad goes through the most complicated Paulson's loop jumps, Lutz jumps, his great repertoire of whirls, spins, his superb weaving spread eagle maneuvers with so light a touch, such ease, and such complete poise that he seems to have been born on skates.

Evans Tips Joe On Sox Bushers

By BILL GRIMES

When the Red Sox break camp on March 31 and begin that long trek home, Manager Joe Cronin will be in possession of an abundance of first hand data concerning the "bushers" that Billy Evans has been sponsoring and fathering through the various minor league grades.

While the 37 ball players that Joe Cronin has selected to go South with his Red Sox varsity are training at Sarasota, Donie Bush and the aspirants for the Louisville club, which is now Tom Yawkey's AA "farm" team, will be at Arcadia, only 40 miles inland.

Although he will have his hands full with a squad of 37 players, the largest collection of ball tossers he ever took South, Joe Cronin hopes to be able to slip over to Arcadia and see the future greats that Donie Bush has under his wing.

For the first three weeks the Red Sox are at Sarasota, Manager Cronin will pay strict attention to the rookies.

ONE SESSION FOR REGULARS

The entire squad will work out mornings but the regulars will be excused from the P. M. sessions.

The Red Sox boss is very anxious to see Woody Rich, and Wayman Kerksieck, who were with Little Rock last season, and Frank Dasso, the strike out king of the Eastern League.

Kerksieck, who was drafted, has also been highly recommended, while Dasso, who is a Chicago sandlotter, may require a year in Double A ball, before he is ready.

In the event that he makes a favorable impression with his boss at the bat, Paul Campbell, who played first base for Little Rock last season, may be converted into an outfielder. Campbell is a "Fancy Dan" around the initial sack but he may prove to be too small for that position. They say that Campbell is one of the best hustlers in baseball.

Wilfrid Lefabvre, the former Holy Cross southpaw pitcher, who was with the Minneapolis Millers last year, has a chance, according to Joe Cronin.

Tommy Irwin, the infielder who came to the Sox from Cleveland with Denny Galehouse, was selected for the All-Southern Association team in '37, but he didn't show to any great advantage last season.

Teddy Williams, who stole the entire show in the American Association last year, will have the call over Leo Nonnenkamp and Stan Spense, but he must show to better advantage than last spring to hold his rating. Nonnenkamp, with a year's experience under the big tent, should click this season, while Spence hit for .322 for the Millers.

Accompanied by President Will Harridge of the American League and Eddie Collins, Joe Cronin goes to the City Club tonight to watch the new picture, "First Century of Baseball." President Harridge arrived in town this morning and Eddie Collins returned from Tom Yawkey's camp in South Carolina today in order to attend tonight's show.

Bees Passed Up Season's 'Find'

Cupid's Inspiration Aroused Vander Meer

Following is the third in a series of human portraits of champions in the 1938 world of sports who should provide added copy for the record books in 1939. Morton Moss, brilliant International News Service sports writer, presents the more personal side of the sports heroes in these articles. The third subject is Johnny Vander Meer, rookie Cincinnati pitcher, who amazed the athletic fraternity with two straight no-hit, no-run games.

By MORTON MOSS
International News Service Sports Writer

Once upon a time there was a little Dutch boy who gallantly stuffed his finger into a hole in the dike and thereby saved Holland from being flooded by the vicious waters lashing at the walls.

That little Dutch boy was the most gigantic hero produced by the land of windmills and wooden brogans until Johnny Vander Meer.

Johnny Vander Meer did not have a dike to work with, but he did have a finger, in fact several exceedingly acrobatic fingers on his left hand.

These exceedingly acrobatic fingers collaborated with a spherical-shaped object and the astounding result was two successive no-hit, no-run baseball bowlings.

An innocent Cincinnati rookie had bonged the bell where such storied mastodons of the mound as Christy Mathewson, Rube Waddell and the modern mighties had knocked in vain.

The old line about what is so rare as a day in June, has to be amended to two days in June, for Johnny—then 23—chose that poetic month to make the Boston Bees and Brooklyn Dodgers bleed for his perfection, and scrawl his signature on major league record parchment in a rookie's declaration of independence.

JOHNNY VANDER MEER IN ACTION

CERTAIN OF RAISE

The serious-meined Dutch boy will bowl his way into his 1939 exercises with a stipend nicely in excess of the $3000 he wangled last year—possibly a bit over $10,000, which may mean that Johnny and lassie Lois Stewart, of Scranton, Pa., will tie a knot.

Having accomplished the almost unbelievable at so Boy-Scoutish an age, Johnny's future seemingly stretches diamond-paved into the distance.

Though Vandy is a beaver from Holland by ancestry, the laddie himself took his first gander at the Globe in Paterson, N. J., on November 2, 1915.

The stolid Johnny had reached the advanced years of 12 when he cavorted in his first "official" bat-and-ball brawl. He gave his all that afternoon at first base for the Dutch Reformed Christian School of Midland, N. J., where the Vander Meers hunt their hats.

There intervened a frightening episode in which Johnny, stricken by appendicitis, dampened the sponge and rubbed the blackboard clean just when it seemed that the little Dutch boy's number was up.

He indulged in numerous calories and regained much of the avoirdupois his illness had peeled off.

Then he returned to the deadly serious business of baseball with the "Bill's Dairy" nine, representing the milk route for whose greater glory he toiled each day. His next horsehide heroics were under Garry Hazen, an old semi-pro'er, who organized a club and stationed the coming Hall of Famer at the initial bag.

NEEDED MOVIE CHARACTER

Destiny, which had been on a holiday, finally began to pull the proper strings, and Johnny uncoiled his wing to flip for Hazen's Rangers one day when they were pressed for peggers.

In 1933, a Brooklyn Dodger feller tagged Dave Driscoll, egged on by several of Johnny's boosters with influence, gave the little Dutch boy the coveted chance in the big leagues, although it was only in the movies.

President John A. Heydler of the National League had commissioned Driscoll to dig up a typical American boy of middle class parents whose father had an industrial background.

The idea was to screen the lad in a cinema version of a minor leaguer coming up to the big top. The purpose was to ensure baseball's continued clutch on the hearts of the younger generation.

With aged whipster Joe Shaute doing the press-agentry, Brooklyn Manager Max Carey, a doubter, packed him off to Dayton, O. Then he was sealed and delivered to Scranton, Pa., where he struck upon that flaming lass Lois Stewart, daughter of a cop.

Johnny also struck upon what seemed strangely like his stride and Brooklyn desired his return, but Judge Landis nixed the Dodgers on the grounds that they had held off too long.

Boston borrowed him for $2500 under a working agreement with Scranton, but he was re-routed to Nashville in the Southern League. Don't laugh now, but—Will McKechnie then strategized for Boston.

After the Red Sox and Giants bid—but not enough—for him, he was corraled in 1937 by Cincinnati.

That the sandy-haired Johnny is still the little Dutch boy was obvious from his pop-eyed perspiration when congratulated by Babe Ruth who viewed the second straight piece of perfection.

But the little boy has talent and he has Lois, a lady with a very persuasive manner.

"I asked Johnny to pitch one," she blandly explained the second no-hitter, "because I missed the one at Cincinnati."
